NEW PROBE OF DEAN MURDER

Governor Bartlett Invites American Representative Before Council

Concord, N. H., Nov. 25.—Governor John H. Bartlett today officially re-opened the Dean murder case when he invited a representative of the Boston American, who investigated the tragedy, to outline the evidence at the regular weekly meeting of the Governor and Council at the State House.

This was the most promising action taken in a case which has dragged for fifteen months without any genuine attempt to solve the mystery, according to charges made by the selectmen and citizens of East Jaffrey, on the outskirts of which town at his mountain home, Dr. William Kendrick Dean was clubbed, gagged and shrouded and his body thrown into a cistern on the night of August 13, 1918.

Governor Bartlett was so impressed with the German spy aspects of the case and the military signal lights when interviewed at his office in Portsmouth, that he promptly decided to submit the whole matter to the members of the Executive Council for consideration as to further action.

PRESS URGED TO RAISE COST OF ADVERTISING

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 25. — Increases of both circulation and advertising rates and reduction in the size of newspapers were proposed as remedies for the newsprint shortage in resolutions introduced here today at a meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

The resolutions provide for a uniform increase throughout the association's membership of five cents a week in subscription rates and Sunday papers are to be reduced in size four pages and daily papers 10 per cent.

Local advertisers are to be requested to reduce their space 25 per cent., and to accept an advance in rate of thirty-three and one-third per cent. Foreign advertising rates are to be raised 25 per cent. A vote on the resolutions will be taken tomorrow.

"Bad Bill" Carlisle May Be Calling on Boston

Bill Carlisle, escaped convict, gunman and Western bandit, is on his way to Boston in the opinion of the Springfield police, and may be in the city now. The man who has baffled the police of a half dozen States, who has held up trains all alone, passed through Springfield last night, according to one of his characteristic notes sent Police Chief William J. Quilty. The police believe it is genuine.

Reads the note: "Dear Chief—Just a line to let you know I've arrived. How's the hunt? Can't stop for answer. With much luck to myself, Bill Carlisle, former convict number 2883."

The note was mailed in Springfield at 7:30 o'clock last night. It was written on heavy paper, bearing no especial mark, and was enclosed in a plain envelope.

SCHOONER SUNK BY SUBMARINE; CREW SAVED

Sandwich, Nov. 25.—The schooner Oakwoods was sunk outside the Buzzard's Bay entrance to the Cape Cod Canal last night in a collision with the United States Submarine R-3. Members of the schooner's crew were rescued by daring work on the part of the submarine sailors and lighthouse tenders.

The Oakwoods was bound from New York to Bar Harbor with a cargo of coal. She settled almost as soon as she was struck, and lay today in five fathoms of water, both her masts showing.

The submarine was not greatly damaged. She lay by all night and continued her course westward today. She was on her way from Boston to Southern ports.

The crew of the Oakwoods was taken to New Bedford in a powerboat. Canal traffic was not interrupted.

CAMBRIDGE MAYOR'S MEETING IS MYSTERY

Much mystery surrounds the summoning of 100 representative Cambridge business men to the City Messenger's office at 8 o'clock tonight. The letter addressed to the merchants states that the matter "is of vital importance" and urges every recipient of the letter to be present. It is signed by the Mayor.

$7,500 IN FURS ARE STOLEN

Portland, Me., Nov. 25.—A band of expert thieves, believed by the police to have included a woman, robbed the Congress street department store of Rines Brothers Company of a large quantity of their most valuable furs early today.

The haul, the value of which is estimated at from $7,500 to $8,000 included twenty Hudson seal coats, three neckpieces and other articles of great price, according to the police.

It was found that entrance was effected through a second story window, which was reached by means of an improvised ladder.

The police theory of a woman member of the band was borne out by the statement of employes that a woman was seen yesterday going into the second floor room through which the thieves entered the building. It is believed that she opened a window and later described its location to her confederates.

Early today, the police believe, the robbers drove up to the alley of Casco street, which runs past the rear of the store. They secured a small painters' ladder and lengthened it by fastening a window blind to one end. Up this they mounted to the window and then proceeded to make a careful selection of furs.

None of the cheaper goods were taken, but were carelessly thrown aside as though unworthy of consideration. The entire stock was gone through and all the most expensive furs carried to the window and lowered to a waiting automobile.

The thieves then descended and calmly drove away, leaving no clues by which they could be traced.

About a year ago the store of L. H. Schlofberg was robbed of furs valued at $20,000, and within two years thieves secured a similar haul from J. E. Palmer Company, also of this city.

HIGGINSON ESTATE TO WIDOW

The greater part of the estate of the late Major Henry Lee Higginson was left to his widow, Ida Agassiz, in a will made on October 19, 1918, and filed in the Suffolk Probate Court today.

To his son, Alexander H. Higginson, was left only a gold watch, personal jewelry and his swords, together with the right to select thirty paintings and other ornaments, with ten Japanese articles and 300 volumes of books.

In this connection the testator said that he made no further provision for his son at that time as he had confidence his wife would take care of him in disposing of her property.

In case Mrs. Higginson should not survive Bijo thirty days, the property will be left in trust to Charles Francis Adams of Concord and Frederick H. Cabot of Boston for the benefit of his son, his son's wife, and his grandson, Henry Lee Higginson.

CITY EMPLOYES DEMAND HIGHER WAGE SCHEDULE

A committee from the Municipal Employes' Central Council called upon Mayor Peters at City Hall today and petitioned for wage increases for practically all city employes. The increase requested ranged from 25 to 40 per cent. President John J. McKernan acted as spokesman. He said the municipal employes did not purpose to strike or to go over the heads of the city authorities to the Legislature, but that they did want more money. Mayor Peters said that such wage increase as were found possible would probably be granted before February 1. He explained that the mater depended on legislative action on the raising of the city debt limit.

ASKS COURT AID IN SHOE REPAIRERS' STRIKE

Robert W. Daley, proprietor of the Daley, Williams & Company shoe repairing establishment at No. 116 Bedford street, has sought an injunction restraining Roy Burrill and other officers of the United Shoe Repairers' Union from interfering with his business. Mr. Daley charges that he has been threatened with physical violence unless he agrees to run a closed shop. He seeks to restrain the union from paying strike employes, and further seeks to have the court define the limit to which peaceful picketing may go.

MILK DEALERS FINED IN DOCHESTER COURT

William H. Hodd of Dorchester avenue, another milk dealer, was fined 45 on the charge of selling milk below the standard. Complaints in both cases were filed by Professor James O. Jordan of the city milk inspection department.

ACCUSED OF FAILURE TO REPORT AUTO ACCIDENT

Frederick Norton, of Stone avenue, Somerville, pleaded not guilty in the Somerville Court today to injuring a person with his automobile and failing to report the accident to the police. The police allege that Norton is the driver of a car which on November 14 knocked down William E. Kelly, a Somerville youth. Kelly's head was injured. Norton was held for a hearing December 2.

WOMEN NAMED TO OFFICE IN GOVERNOR'S SHAKE-UP

Above, Ethel M. Johnson of Boston, named as Assistant Commissioner of Labor and Industries at a salary of $4,000, and Ada Eliot Sheffield of Cambridge, who was appointed to the advisory board of the Department of Public Welfare.

Miss Ethel M Johnson who was named assistant commissioner of labor by Governor Coolidge, under the new consolidated law, professed complete surprise today. She said she had absolutely no notice that her appointment had been settled upon, and must refuse to discuss policy, as she had not had time to consider it.

Miss Johnson commended Miss Mabel Gillespie, one of the candidates for the position. She said that she would have considered Miss Gillespie a good appointee, as representing the working women, but that she considered herself as representing the public.

She declined to say whether she would inaugurate changes in her department. She pointed out that her work was mostly advisory.

Miss Johnson has been since October, 1918, executive secretary of the Minimum Wage Commission. Before that she was deputy secretary of the congressional committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage Association.

Charged with bringing Priscilla Morgan, eighteen, from New York to Boston, Antonio Portella of Hanover street, Boston, was today held in $5,000 bonds by United States Commissioner Hayes for a hearing December 5. He was arrested Monday by Deputy United States Marshal Charles Bancroft. To questions of Commissioner Hayes as to whether he was a citizen or had any intention of taking out naturalization papers, Portella replied in the negative.

DECLINES JOB HE CALLS A 'SOP'

The anger and resentment felt in certain quarters against Governor Coolidge's appointments burst forth into a political sensation today when Charles S. Baxter, former campaign manager for Governor McCall and one of the Republican leaders of the State, sent in his resignation as a Metropolitan District Commissioner, with a salary of $1,000, and attacked Governor Coolidge for the character of his appointments.

"We are living under the regime of a royal Governor," said Baxter in his attack upon Coolidge, "and the right of petition is about destroyed here in Massachusetts.

"He shut himself away from everybody except Winthrop Murray Crane and William M. Butler, and he is as far away from the public as he was from the Boston police force at the time of the strike.

"His crowd is just booming him for President, which everyone who knows him knows to be ridiculous. I couldn't subscribe to his campaign and others who fit the same have been treated in the same way.

"He has taken away men trained in the service at the expense of the State, and put six lot of unknowns, who are unskilled in the service which the public demands.

"His secretary and a few of his friends kept him shut off from everyone who was interested in the public service. I wouldn't serve, or wouldn't agree to serve, on the new Metropolitan District Commission, unless I knew with whom I would be called

U. S. INSISTS ON SPEEDY REPLY TO AMERICAN NOTE

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 25.—The whole Mexican situation involving the Jenkins case and other affronts to the United States was the subject of a lengthy discussion in the Cabinet today.

Secretary of State Lansing laid before the members the latest information which had come to the department in the situation. The Secretary after the meeting declined to discuss what had transpired or to state whether a definite policy was formed.

William O. Jenkins, the American consular official, is still incarcerated in a Mexican penitentiary and his health is said to be suffering from the confinement, according to advices reaching Washington today.

The American government, it was learned today, is still in a mood to use its military and naval forces on a large scale unless satisfaction is given after a reasonable delay. Just how much time will be allowed the Carranza government to forward its reply is not known, but Mexico has been warned that it must not employ unnecessarily dilatory procedures.

It is pointed out that the note to Mexico is by far the most pointed that the American government has yet sent to the neighboring republic and that it will require firm backing if the United States is to come out of the situation without embarrassment. Either Mexico will have to give this country a satisfactory reply or armed intervention must follow, according to opinion here—that or backing down, and nobody believes it will come to that.

With the convening of Congress next Monday it is known that several Senators, including many Democrats, will voice their protest at the State Department's negligence, particularly in the Jenkins case, and demand that such action to guarantee the safety of Americans and provide for the compliance by Mexico of the United States' request for Jenkins' release, be taken at once.

Senator King, of Utah; Senator Thomas, Colorado, and Senator Myers, of Montana, are among those on the Democratic side who will prod the administration unless something has been done before Congress convenes.

Senator Fall, it was learned yesterday, has been making a personal investigation while on the border. Hearings by the sub-committee are expected to be resumed shortly after Congress reconvenes and it is probable that the committee will go to the border as soon as the legislation situation and the treaty fight will permit a first-hand inquiry.

The following statements were made by Senators in connection with the Mexican situation:

SENATOR CHAMBERLAIN of Oregon:

John Hay's message to Morocco a few years ago: "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead" almost describes the present day affairs in Mexico.

In dealing with Mexico or any other country, where the life or the liberty of an American is in the balance, the United States ought to be as firm as Gibraltar.

And wherever an American citizen goes and property conducts himself he would ought to be made to understand that this country will protect him. Our government ought to see to it that the demands on Jenkins' behalf are immediately complied with and Jenkins given full protection.

SENATOR STERLING of South Dakota:

I am inclined to think that firmness with Mexico is the true attitude for this government to take.

We cannot afford to make demands and permit another country to defend or evade them.

If we are to retain any influence among other nations, we must, in the first instance, make only just claims or demands and, in the second place, having made such demands, insist upon their being complied with.

Any different course will lose us the respect, not alone of Mexico, but of other nations as well.

It is evident to my mind that the charge made by the Mexican government against Consul Jenkins is a trumped-up and baseless charge.

SENATOR POMERENE of Ohio:

Unquestionably we should be firm when the question of American lives are in jeopardy.

The Mexican government must understand that the American flag follows the American citizen even into Mexico.

We have been very tolerant of the Mexican people. We have realized very fully the revolutionary tendencies which have prevailed there and we have no desire to interfere with their internal affairs but they must not be permitted to continue their annoyances of American citizens with impunity.

The Mexican government is keeping closely in touch with the sentiment here with regard to the Jenkins case, it was learned at the Mexican Embassy today.

Ambassador Bonillas stated that he had exchanged several communications with his government relative to the case, but none was of any "importance."

The ambassador was still confident that a satisfactory settlement of the case might be reached shortly.

GUARDSMAN TRAPS ESCAPED PRISONER

The police have arrested William Tiffany, aged twenty-one, of Watertown, who escaped last June while being transferred from the Concord, N. H., State Hospital for the Insane to the New Hampshire State Prison. Tiffany and a companion had been sentenced to from ten to twelve years on the charge of holding up and shooting an aged man in Swanzey, N. H., on June 2, 1917.

A State Guardsman, Private William E. Coen, recognized Tiffany as the latter was entering a store on Howard street. He notified Lieutenant Mosher of the Court square station, and then telephoned Inspector Burke of the Watertown police. Mosher detailed Coen and Patrolman Crowley, and they arrested Tiffany.

MAY TURN COAL SITUATION OVER TO GARFIELD

Cabinet Expected to Give Him Power to Name Wage Increases

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 25.—President Wilson's Cabinet probably will turn the coal situation over entirely to Dr. Garfield, Federal fuel administrator.

This opinion was expressed today by Attorney-General Palmer as the Cabinet convened. The attorney-general said he believed the Cabinet would endorse a proposition supporting Dr. Garfield and giving him full power to determine just prices for coal and the increases in wages which can be allowed to the miners.

"The situation needs classification," said Secretary of Labor Wilson. He indicated that he would urge the Cabinet to take a definite stand on what increases in wages should be granted.

Meanwhile both operators and miners were holding a perfunctory session to discuss wage increases, but there was little discussion. Both sides were waiting action by the Cabinet.

THROUGH WITH MINERS.

Representatives of the operators declared that if the Cabinet failed to act they would withdraw from the conference and return to their homes and would post notices offering their workers increases of 15 cents a ton on mined coal and $1 a day for day laborers. They declared they would refuse to treat further with officials of the miners' unions until the men return to their work.

The operators also indicated that if they withdrew they would issue a statement to the public declaring their willingness to arbitrate the wage controversy and denying any blame for failure of the present negotiations.

Coal operators are not at all pleased today with the statement made by William G. McAdoo yesterday to the effect that they have made excessive profits.

Thomas T. Brewster, who is head of the coal operators' wage scale committee meeting here, said today:

"McADOO BACK NUMBER."

"We wish the government would follow Mr. McAdoo's proposal and publish the income tax returns of the coal operators. It might help us in the present struggle."

Brewster admitted that in the first six months of 1917 bituminous coal prices were profitable to some operators whose holdings were in the Eastern fields.

"This was stopped when the Fuel Administration was created and the government fixed prices," said Brewster. "After the armistice there was a great decrease in demand and prices fell below the government fixed prices. The prices have remained down up to the present crisis, except in a few fields where consumers have voluntarily bid up prices."

Brewster intimated that the McAdoo statement might have been made for political purposes, and said it was "either with deliberately malicious intent or with the intention of currying favor in some quarter."

"McAdoo is a back number," said Brewster, "and he knows that the government already has all of the figures showing what our profits have been."

Dr. Garfield was before the Cabinet and it was understood that he took up with the Cabinet the statement made by Comptroller General of the Treasury McAdoo yesterday to the effect that the operators have made large profits.

Secretary Glass, it is understood, laid before the Cabinet the complete statistics as to the excess profits of the coal operators.

Attorney-General Palmer stated that if the figures cited by McAdoo were correct and accurate it was apparent that the public certainly should not bear the burden of any increase in wages to the miners.

McAdoo Says Tax Returns Will Show Whether He Was Unfair as Operators' Critic

By International News Service.

New York, Nov. 25.—The statement of Thomas T. Brewster, head of the coal operators' wage scale committee, that William G. McAdoo had been unfair in his criticism of the operators, was read with interest at Mr. McAdoo's office today.

"Let the government publish the tax returns showing the operators' profits. It will show which of us is right," it was stated.

No comment was forthcoming regarding Brewster's suggestion that McAdoo's statement was for political purposes.

ANTI-STRIKE BILL RAPPED BY VAHEY

Denouncing the anti-strikes bill as "an unconstitutional and unjust attempt to force labor into involuntary servitude," James H. Vahey, counsel for the street carmen, today began labor's attack upon the measure at the hearing before the Legal Affairs Committee of the Legislature.

Scores of labor delegates, representing every Central Labor Union of the State and the 250,000 organized workers, crowded the committee room.

W. D. Mahon, president of the National Association of Street Carmen, was reported to be en route to Boston, and the agents of the four Brotherhoods of Railroad Employes were busy in the work throwing their strength against the bill.

The measure provides that any employe of a street railway who combines with the other workers to disrupt service shall be dismissed and shall be in eligible for re-employment within a year.

Mr. Vahey held the measure to be unconstitutional because it would be in contravention to the Federal amendment relating to liberty of contract and to the one allowing equal protection of the laws to all citizens.

"It would be in the nature of involuntary servitude," said Mr. Vahey, "and the Constitution of the United States long ago set forth that this cannot be put into effect.

"Labor is more free to strike 50 years ago than he is today largely because of the attitude taken by the courts when any question between capital and labor had to be decided.

"The right to strike is the greatest weapon of the worker, and that right itself has been more effective in bringing about the aims of the workers than the act of striking itself."

Mr. Vahey contended that while labor unions within the past few years may have broken their agreements, they were more or less the victims of circumstances in that the cost of living had risen so abnormally that it practically nullified the wage scales in effect.

He denied that it is the policy of the trolley men's union to seek a strike in order to bring about their aims.

The meeting of the Boston Carmen's Union was there ever any suggestion of a sympathetic strike in favor of the Boston police," he declared.

B. & M. MAY LEAVE HANDS OF RECEIVER

Only a possible objection raised by the minority stockholders of the Boston & Maine railroad will keep that road in the hands of the receiver after tomorrow. The objections raised by Attorney Asa P. French, counsel for the Samuel C. Lawrence estate, was eliminated today when the objections were withdrawn. Tomorrow Attorney George L. Mayberry, for the receiver, will present a decree to Judge James M. Morton, which will urge the discharging of the receiver. Only Conrad C. Crocker, counsel for the minority stockholders, is left of the original petitioners for receivership. If he objects to the discharging of the receiver, matters may be delayed for another week.

U. S. Must Go Through Greater Crisis, Says Schwab

By International News Service.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25.—"The United States must pass through a crisis even greater than the present labor crisis today, declared Charles M. Schwab, who came to Pittsburgh to attend services in memory of Andrew Carnegie.

"We's all got to learn to be efficient," he said. "And we've got to go through some sort of a crisis to realize just what this means. The labor crisis is not big enough to produce the desired effect. It must be greater."

The steel magnate said he did not believe the Senate's rejection of the peace treaty would have very much effect on business.

"But I do think," he added, "that the Senate might have stretched its point and ratified the treaty if for nothing but national dignity."

Mr. Schwab said the world was engaged in a "riot of luxurious expenditure" and he saw no change in the general food situation and food prices.

LYNN BURGLAR IS FRIGHTENED BY SCREAM

Awakened by the gleam of a flash-light on her face, Mrs. Harvey Newhall, wife of one of the most prominent physicians in Lynn, early today disregarded a burglar's command to keep silent and aroused her husband by screaming.

Seizing a revolver and clad only in pajamas, Dr. Newhall pursued the man through the Newhall home at No. 51 Nahant street, to the open air, where the burglar escaped.

According to the police, who were not notified until some time later, the thief overlooked a quantity of valuable jewelry, silverware and plate, securing only $50 which he abstracted from the doctor's clothing.

The burglar effected an entrance through a basement door, according to the police, and made his way to the second floor. On this floor the sleeping rooms are located, that of Dr. Newhall being adjoined by the one occupied by his wife and baby.

The thief first entered the room of the physician and rifled his clothing. He then entered Mrs. Newhall's room, and aroused her by flashing his light in her face. As soon as the woman opened her eyes the man commanded her to be silent. Instead she began to scream, and was soon joined by the infant, whose cries added considerably to the din. Dr. Newhall chased the man down stairs to the basement, where the burglar escaped through the outside door.

FIGHTS PLEA OF FORMER WIFE FOR $100,000

New York, Nov. 25.—Justice Manning in Brooklyn Supreme Court today denied the request of counsel for Virginius J. Mayo and his wife Lois Dudley Waterbury Mayo, to dismiss or for lack of prosecution a suit brought against them by one of Mayo's former wives, Miss Wilhelmina Meyer-Mies Meyer, who wasy Mayo's wife for eleven years, alleged in her complaint that Mayo transferred his property to his present wife to prevent her from collecting a verdict of $100,000, which she obtained against him as a result of a bigamous marriage. The court put the trial for December.

FIRST ANARCHIST TRIAL IN STATE IS OPENED

The first trial in Massachusetts under the new anti-anarchist act, opened today in the East Cambridge Superior Criminal Court before Judge O'Connell, where Felix and Tomatanny Dobrowolski, brothers, are defendants on the charge of promoting anarchy.

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex County, who staged the sensational raid last week upon the Lowell store of the Dobrowolski's, is representing the government.

INTRODUCES PHOTOGRAPH.

A feature in the county prosecutor's case was the introduction this afternoon of a picture which played a prominent part in the recent steel strike hearing at Washington, depicting a woman lying dead and alleging she had been killed by police in the employ of the steel corporation.

This photograph was displayed in the window of the establishment which the brothers conducted at 101 and 107 Lake View avenue, Lowell, as a restaurant and tonic bottling plant.

Patrolman J. J. Cauley of Lowell, the first witness called, attracted to his attention was first called to the anarchistic activities of the brothers by citizens who had noticed the picture hanging in the store window.

He testified that he telephoned the police station regarding the picture, and later went in the establishment and talked to the brothers.

DENIAL FROM FELIX.

"Felix denied any knowledge of where the picture came from," said Patrolman Cauley, "but Tomatanny said he was glad the pictures was in the window and that he believed the public should know about the oppression of the laboring class by the government."

Inspector Edward Dwyer and State Officer M. J. Burrell, attached to the office of District Attorney Tufts, also testified as to the alleged anarchistic statements of Tomatanny.

WIFE AND HER DOUBLE ARE ACCUSED

A "comedy of errors," in which a wife was wrongfully accused of a larceny now charged against a "double" whom she never saw, came to light in Quincy District Court today.

The "double," Miss Margaret M. Sullivan of No. 1 Bond street, was held for the Grand Jury by Judge Avery, charged with the theft of a Liberty Bond. The wife, Mrs. Julia Bennett, was out on bail pending trial on the same charge. Judge Avery announced that he would accept a plea of not guilty from Mrs. Bennett, as he considered her exonerated.

The arrest of Mrs. Bennett followed the testimony of a Washington street pawnbroker, who thought he recognized in her the woman who sold him the bond. Today he changed this testimony, after seeing Miss Sullivan, and admitted that he had been deceived by the similarity in appearance of the two women.

The bond was stolen from Mrs. Catherine Fay of Hancock street, Quincy. The Quincy police are hunting for Louis Bennett, husband of the woman now being accused. He is said by the police to have known Miss Sullivan for some time, although she was unknown to his wife.

10,000 BOSTON TAXPAYERS AID TEACHERS

Sign Petition for $600 Pay Increase; Fight Taken to State House

Ten thousand taxpayers of this city have signed a petition endorsing the demand of Boston school teachers for a $600 annual increase, according to a statement by the teachers' publicity committee.

A similar petition to the Legislature, stating that the signatories believe the teachers are justified in their demand, is printed today in the Boston American.

It also was announced that two thousand Boston teachers gave $1 each toward a fund for meeting the expenses of carrying to the Legislature their fight for a flat increase.

The opening gun in this fight was fired today when eight teachers appeared before the joint legislative committee at the State House in support of their plea.

Their appearance resulted from the action of the joint committee in overriding Mayor Peters' veto and to permit the teachers to go before the Legislature, the committee decided that the teachers should be given an opportunity to testify, and specified that eight should be heard today. The selection was left to their counsel, Herbert Parker, former attorney-General.

OVERRIDE MAYOR'S MANDATE.

The special committee meeting was called for arguments on the bill giving the teachers a $600 raise. Their attorney said that none of the teachers was present to testify because they had been refused permission by the Mayor but that an order from the committee was supreme to that of the city executive. The committee was not long in giving the order. The teachers were ordered to appear at another hearing at 2 p. m. today.

Judge Michael H. Sullivan of the Boston school committee presented arguments of the committee for an increase of $344 a year. This is the amount which Mayor Peters believes the teachers should receive. Judge Sullivan argued that sum would give the instructors a percentage of increase commensurate with that of other city employes. He took into consideration, however, that some of the teachers were receiving as low as $600 a year.

RELIES ON TAXPAYERS' JUSTICE.

The school committee also was authorized to summon teachers and witnesses for the lower increase at the committee hearing today. Arthur D. Hill, corporation counsel for the city, appeared before the committee and assented to the plan for summoning teachers to today's session.

Mayor Peters said that he relied on the justice and generosity of Boston taxpayers in the present issue. He commended the action of the City Council in granting the teachers the right to take their fight to the Legislature.

"Teachers Must Civilize Society," Says Speaker Before Conference

"The struggle that we school teachers always have to raise our salaries shows that the community is not interested in us. The community wants its cheap and it wants us easy. Society, if not against us, at least is not for us. We must, therefore, civilize society."

These broadsides were hurled into a placid ninth annual conference of teachers of English at the Public Library by Horace A. Eaton of Syracuse University.

He said that the pedagogues that the fault with English teachers was that they were too efficient. "At present," he said, "the child is inclined to look upon the English teacher as a rare specimen of cranks." Eaton ended by urging that teachers take a vital part in the management of schools. "We have a school system in which teachers shall have a hand in the management," said he Call it Soviet government if you will, but, nevertheless, the school authorities must be brought to terms."

Other speeches were made by Henry S. Canby, instructor of Yale, and magazine writer, and Simms Kirsey, of the University of Missouri, and University of California.

"It is very good for teachers if their pupils have the power to say, 'I will have no more of you,' said Miss Brett, in advocating a nationalization of education, which would give all citizens, irrespective of their financial standing, the education they could take. "The time has come in Massachusetts," said she, "for free State colleges.

"The old Boston type you do not find on the streets any longer. You find them still in Boston, but they sit on the platforms in forums. If you want democracy, if you want one, the masses or the classes, let us educate the masses and let the classes get along for their civilization on the traditions of their fathers."

MOURNED AS DEAD, DETROIT LAWYER IS REUNITED TO MOTHER

ARRESTED BY POLICE AS HOBO

Young Attorney Son of Prominent Detroit Society Woman; She Believed Him Drowned

West Springfield, Nov. 25.—Tears welled to the eyes of seasoned police officers when Leroy B. Blinn, aged twenty-six, a Detroit, Mich., lawyer, was reunited to his mother in the West Springfield police station, after a separation of nearly five months, during which period his mother thought him dead—lost in the depths of Lake Michigan.

The clearing up of one of the most mysterious cases ever brought to the attention of the local police is due largely to the determined efforts of Chief of Police Marshall A. Belmer, after the arrest and arraignment in court of the lawyer on two hobo charges, and his subsequent removal by court order to the State Hospital for the Insane at Northampton.

BOOKED AS VAGRANT.

Blinn was arrested last Tuesday in the West Springfield freight yards of the Boston and Albany Railroad by railroad detectives on the charge of trespassing, and was later booked as a vagrant at the police station under the name of Harry Gibson. He was tried in Springfield Police Court Friday and ordered sent to the State Hospital.

Before carrying out the sentence, Chief Palmer decided to question Blinn further, the chief realizing that the young man's actions at times were strange. Blinn was in a dazed condition, but managed to acquire his senses long enough at times to tell the chief that he had been wandering all over the country since July 17, hopping freights most of the time. He was untidy and covered with dirt when picked up by the officers.

Chief Belmer also obtained from Blinn the statement that he formerly lived in Michigan, and investigation brought the tale of disappearance of the young attorney.

RECOGNIZES SON.

The boy's mother, who is prominent in Detroit society, and whose address is No. 906 Hazlewood avenue, immediately came here and recognized her son, but the young attorney at first was unable to recognize her.

Blinn was discharged from the army in Detroit just as his unit was about to go overseas, because of a nervous breakdown. He returned home and his health failed to gain. One day in June he was seen paddling a canoe on Lake Michigan and he did not return. It was assumed he was drowned and further hopes of his recovery were given up.

But Chief Belmer that he did not know what he did with the canoe and that he does not remember giving himself the name of Harry Gibson. He faintly remembers riding freight trains and traveling about the country, but otherwise his memory and mind are still somewhat dazed. His mother will take him home and he will be given attention by specialists, in the hopes of restoring his health.

TRY TO FORCE QUINCY TEACHER TO RESIGN

All Quincy is awaiting the outcome of the meeting of the Girls' High committee tonight, when it will be definitely settled whether or not Miss Euphrasia Hernan, who, after 40 forty years a teacher here, will be forced to retire. Should the committee decide Miss Hernan will take legal steps through her counsel, Edward J. Fegan, it is rumored. Miss Hernan was retired by the school committee at the request of Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools. He brought the charge of inefficiency against the veteran teacher. Miss Hernan refused to retire. Since then the teacher's case has been the feature of countless meetings. At the last meeting the committee voted to reinstate Miss Hernan and give her a month's vacation, the understanding being that she would voluntarily resign at the end of the month. The month ends today and Miss Hernan has again refused to resign.

PROPOSE ERECTION OF STADIUM AT WORCESTER

Worcester, Nov. 25.—Plans for the erection of a stadium for local amateur sports over Pool hort, revealed by a part of the late Captain Ralph E. Donnelly, who suggested such a structure before he lost his life in the recent war. Members of Worcester Post, American Legion, school committee and various athletic clubs are interested in the scheme. The proposed stadium would cost about 15,000. It has been suggested that it be named after Captain Donnelly. According to tentative plans, the school committee will be asked to permit a tract of land to be bought by regular subscription. The matter may be presented to the school committee at its meeting Friday night.

A soldiers' and sailors' memorial committee has been appointed, with former Governor Simeon E. Baldwin, chairman. Mayor Fitzgerald is one of the enthusiastic supporters of the idea.

WOMEN HAUNT SOUTH SHORE AFTER DUCK

Picking up the dead ones.

Duck shooting is the latest fad in sportdom for women.

The South Shore is gradually becoming the mecca for out-of-doors women, and their success with the shotgun is amply evidenced in the strings of ducks they bring back from the beaches and marshlands of Cape Cod and Buzzards Bay.

Almost any day one can encounter the huntswomen on the roads leading to the haunts of the black duck.

The "fled-bug" is among the favorite conveyances for travel. With guns securely strapped, the little four wheelers hum along shortwards.

There mildly plants her decoys and lies low on the blind, waiting for the quarry to appear.

Before long comes the whir of the ducks, circling wide to visit the decoys, apparently peacefully feeding close by the shore.

Then follows the barrage of duck shot, and the boat is shoved off to secure the birds which have fallen under the fire.

RICH CLUBMAN SUED BY GIRL FOR $100,000

Jesse Metcalf, Graduate of Harvard, Denies Charges of Miss Juneau

New York, Nov. 25.—Jesse Metcalf, wealthy clubman and woolen merchant, entered a general denial today to a breach of promise suit filed in the county clerk's office against him yesterday by Miss Beverly Juneau, whose identity is a mystery.

Miss Juneau demands $100,000 and charges that Metcalf, posing as a single man, promised to marry her in September, 1918. She says she consented to the marriage and learned later that he had married Miss Marjorie Paine Greenfield, in April, 1915.

The Metcalfs live at No. 130 East Sixty-seventh street. He is a Harvard graduate and a member of the Manhattan Club, the Essex County Club, the Larchmont Yacht Club, the Rockaway Hunting Club and Squadron A.

The wedding of Miss Greenfield and Mr. Metcalf, in the spring of 1915, was a big society event. She was famous for her beauty and as a participant in society functions for charity benefits.

MURDER LETTER IS ONLY CLEW TO MISSING GIRL

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Nov. 25. — The police authorities today admitted they were baffled by the disappearance of Sophie Zielinsky, Glen Lyon high school girl, who has been missing from her home since Sunday. A mysterious letter signed "Mike G.," which was found near the Zielinsky home, offers the only clew to the fate of the girl. According to this letter she was kidnaped and then murdered. Charges of political activity and incompetence were made against Frank F. Tripp, William Dobbins and Fred Dawson, precinct officers in Ward 16, by nine voters who ask for their removal by the election commissioners, in a petition filed today.

The charges are said to be the aftermath of the fight between Simon Swig, vice-president of the Tremont Trust Company, and State Senator John J. Walsh for Senator of the Eighth Suffolk District, in which office Walsh was re-elected by a small margin.

Those Republican officials are accused of having signed circulars, letters and advertisements favoring the candidacy of Senator Walsh, who is a Democrat. A hearing is to be given Friday evening before one of the election commissioners on the charges.

Dobbins is a clerk in Precinct 2, Tripp in Precinct 6, and Dawson is warden in Precinct 9. It is said that the Republican ward committee is behind the petitioners. The signers are Benjamin Berenson, Victor Kaufman, Marcus A. Cohen, Benjamin H. Green, Ira F. Purcell, Joseph Rittenberg, Frank L. Bass, Samuel Mintz and Benjamin Snider.

'HOLIDAY THIEF' DRIVE BEGINS IN BOSTON

New Patrolmen, in Plain Clothes, Watch Express Wagons for Gang

"Holiday express wagon thieves," termed by the police the meanest of their kind in operation, will find they are up against a new proposition this year if the plan put into effect by the police today works out as expected.

Eight new patrolmen were detailed today from Station 2 as a special squad to work among the "holiday thieves." The patrolmen were in plain clothes and will mingle with members of the organized gang which, according to the police, has been operating in Boston for the past twenty years.

The members of this gang are known at police headquarters. Most of them come to Boston for the holiday season only. The greater part of them, according to the police, drift in from Providence, New York and Philadelphia. The members of the police force were chosen for the work because they are unknown to the gang.

The holiday season for the express thieves, according to Captain Jaffies of Sullivan Square Station 2, starts on about November 15 and terminates after New Year's Day.

Six alleged members of the gang already have been placed under arrest on charges of larceny from a common carrier. Another instance in the crusade of the "holiday thieves" came today when a driver for a Charlestown express company reported to the police that a box containing skirts to the value of $1 had been stolen from his wagon in Boston. This is the second complaint of theft made to the police by the same driver within a few days.

The most fertile points for the "holiday thieves," according to Captain Sullivan, are at the junctions of Summer and Otis streets, and Washington and School streets. Here the streets are narrow, and several buildings with entrances on different streets afford the "holiday thief" his means of escape.

The "holiday thieves" follow an express wagon, and while the driver is inside a building pick out the most likely looking package in his wagon and walk off. About half of the "holiday thieves" in Boston are arrested every year, according to the police records. They generally are given sentences of from six to ten months, getting out just in time to begin operations during the "holiday season" of the following year.

The court fixed December 23 as the date for the hearing testimony and deposition of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire New York hotel proprietor. The refusation of Mrs. Stokes' charges that he is "unfit, as a result of the drug-taking habit," to properly care for the children.

Local attorneys for Mr. Stokes intimated that the New York gentleman would appear here in person on December 23.

"FLYING WITCH" PAYS VISIT TO MILLBURY

Millbury, Nov. 25—Reports of a "witch" who rode on a broom and vanished before the eyes of terrified burghers of Water street had the town excited today. Joseph Paradis told of seeing the "witch" as he was delivering groceries.

"She zoomed in on me," said he. "No human being could ever run as that mystery did. I couldn't have caught it with an aeroplane."

Chief T. A. Dolan, after making an investigation at the request of residents of the district, said that he believed the scare due to pranks of youngsters trying to frighten women factory employes.

Best Turkeys Bring 75 Cents a Pound and Are Scarce

Vermont turkey is "roosting high" in the Boston market this Thanksgiving. Suburbanites who like the exclusive bird as part of Thanksgiving dinner are finding mighty little to be thankful about in a visit to the market district, where freshly-killed Green Mountain turkey is retailing at from 65 to 75 cents a pound.

Western turkey sells for from 54 to 58 cents, according to the "meanwinness" of the bird. Some dealers report a shortage of both native and Western turkeys, even at the war prices demanded, and those wishing to make sure of their Thanksgiving roast are exhorted to "buy now."

Dealers declare that it is best to purchase at once, as the holiday supply is none too plentiful. One wholesale merchant had sold out his stock today, and was without a turkey of either the Vermont or Western variety. Dealers also predict a jump in the prices. "We couldn't buy them today ourselves for sixty-five cents," stated one dealer who was selling Illinois turkeys at that figure.

VEGETABLES CHEAP.

Fruits and vegetables do not appear to have felt the cruel hand of H. C. L. to such an extent. Sweet and white potatoes, squash, pumpkin, turnip and most of the other everyday vegetables are easily secured at five cents a pound, and in some cases for less. The market in Bonded yam cranberries at ten cents a pound, "three pounds for a quarter."

Walnuts are now on sale at 45 cents a pound. Assorted nuts sell for 35 and 40 cents a pound, while many of the different varieties, such as cashews, filberts, and almonds, can be bought at the same price. Walnuts are five cents higher.

Some dealers have celery as low as 30 cents, while others are getting 35 cents.

For those who like oyster dressing with their bird, there are Southern oysters opened at Norfolk for 40 cents the quart. "Nearby" oysters are 75 cents, while the famous Cotuits bring $1.50.

SOME DEALERS HAVE LEADERS.

Some "inside dope" was given today by a good-natured marketman. "Most of the dealers," he declared, "make a run on one article, selling it practically at cost. They figure to make their profit by selling other articles at the same time. The big one would be to purchase each article at the stall where it was being sold as a specialty."

Not only ducks, but duck eggs also, are being displayed in the market. As the prices of the latter range from $1 to $1.20 per dozen, however, they can hardly be considered as handing old H. C. L. much of a wallop, although it is true that they are slightly larger than the product of the hen.

3,000 TO BE FED BY SALVATION ARMY HERE

Society Women to Help Organization Surprise and Satisfy Poor Children

Plans are perfected for the annual Thanksgiving Day dinner for 3,000 Boston poor children by the Salvation Army.

Colonel Gifford, in command of the Salvation Army group, has announced that the big function for the children is to be held in the Cadet Chase Auditorium of the People's Palace, commencing at 11:30 a. m.

Everything will be in readiness, turkeys steaming, and "fixins" aplenty at the appointed hour.

This year, a more elaborate program than usual will feature the repast.

Brigadier-General Charles H. Cole will speak to the children, and music will be furnished by the Salvation Army band. A corps of waiters and waitresses will be on hand to attend to the wants of the little ones. Many Back Bay, Brookline and Newton society women will spend most of the day at the Palace looking after the guests.

Chefs have already begun, in the kitchens of the Palace, to prepare the food for Thanksgiving. The dinner will consist of turkey, mashed potatoes, dressing, cranberry, celery and fruit. Each child will be given a box of candy on leaving the auditorium.

Letters asking for tickets to the feast have been coming in by the hundreds, and Colonel Gifford expects that no hungry mothers or children will be turned away.

OVERSEAS VETERAN IS HELD FOR JURY

Ralph Wright, an overseas veteran, who lives on Oakland street, Springfield, has been held in $100 bail for the grand jury by Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the United States District Court on the charge of having violated the Mann Act.

The defendant, who is twenty-two years old and married, is said to have taken Miss Doris McLaughlin, aged fifteen, of Portsmouth, N. H., from Springfield to Cleveland, O., and it is by the Federal authorities that Miss McLaughlin was a nurse to the defendant's three-year-old boy of Springfield. Wright is said to have first met Miss McLaughlin at Hampton Beach, where his wife at the time conducted a hotel.

JEANNETTE RANKIN TO ADDRESS LEGION POST

Jeannette Rankin of Montana, the only woman who ever sat in Congress, will be the principal speaker at a concert to be given by Thomas J. Roberts Post, American Legion, at Codman Square Theatre, Dorchester, Sunday afternoon, December 7. Senator David I. Walsh will address the meeting and preside at the reception for Miss Rankin, which will be attended by members of Boston's clubs and by the city. ### 1,000 IN NAVY TO GET U. S. WAR DECORATIONS

Washington, Nov. 25.—Upwards of 1,000 officers and enlisted men of the navy will be decorated by the Navy Department for gallantry and conspicuous service in the war with Germany.

POLICE BEAT CROWDS AT LIMERICK MEETING

Cork, Ireland, Nov. 25.—Police armed with clubs and batons suppressed a peaceable attempt by the people of Limerick to commemorate the "Manchester martyrs."

Crowds who tried to observe the old custom of paying this tribute were ruthlessly beaten and mauled, and this provoked rioting, during which revolver shots were fired and the police were stoned by the infuriated people.

GIRL DEAD IN BALTIMORE LOVE TANGLE

Another, Poisoned, in Hospital, Two Men, Both Wealthy, Are Under Arrest

By International News Service.

Baltimore, Nov. 25.—The death of one young woman, the poisoning of another and the arrest of two men, said to be wealthy, in connection with the case, was uncovered by the police here today in a tangled romance involving four persons.

The dead girl is Lucille Sharp, twenty-nine, of Winston Salem, N. C. She died Saturday. Her friend, Catherine Bristol, twenty-five, of Philadelphia, is in a critical condition in Johns Hopkins Hospital, suffering from poisoning. She told physicians that she "took poison by accident out of a large bottle" yesterday.

The two men under arrest are John Kelley, forty-eight, said to be a wealthy contractor, and Miss Sharp's fiancé, Allie Osman, who, the police say, is a shoe dealer.

The police admit they have not yet cleared up the case. They say their investigation has disclosed that Kelley and Miss Sharp came to Baltimore some months ago from Atlanta, Ga., and have since lived here as man and wife. Saturday morning Miss Sharp was sent unconscious to the Union Protestant Infirmary, where she died that afternoon, supposedly from Bright's disease, and a permit to remove the body was issued.

Shortly after her death, the police say, Kelley telephoned to Miss Bristol:

"Lucille is dead. Come at once to Baltimore."

She arrived Sunday from Philadelphia, and is said to have visited Osman in New York, according to the police, and the Turk came to Baltimore immediately.

Yesterday Miss Bristol became violently ill and was taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital in a semi-conscious condition. Her condition is grave.

Immediately after Miss Bristol's admission to the hospital under practically the same conditions as Miss Sharp, the police suspicions were aroused and the arrest of Kelley and Osman followed.

CALL DR. MAGRATH IN OTTERSON CASE

Concord, N. H., Nov. 25.—Dr. George Burgess Magrath of Boston, medical expert in many criminal prosecutions, has been called into the Otterson murder case by Attorney-General Young. Dr. Magrath's entry into the investigation at this late date is regarded as evidence that the authorities are sensitive to criticism, and wish to take every precaution to prevent such a miscarriage of justice as is believed to have resulted in the Dean case. The prisoner's mental condition is expected to have a great bearing on the fate of Mrs. Howard L. Otterson, charged with the murder of her brother-in-law, Maurice S. Otterson.

CENTRALIA PLANS TO RID NATION OF "REDS"

Centralia, Wash., Nov. 25.—Centralia's campaign to rid the nation of the I. W. W., and all anarchists and revolutionary organizations and individuals, includes a nation-wide speaking tour.

The tour is planned to culminate about mid-December at Washington, D. C., where the speakers will present to Congress the demands of Centralia for the formation of a local battalion. Lieutenant Gilman will tell how to secure confirmation of rank and future of the reserves. There are about 300 naval reserves in Worcester.

By International News Service.

WILLIAM WALSH TO BE CARMEN'S AGENT

William Walsh won the nomination for business agent over the incumbent, William J. Timmins, in the Carmen's Union primaries, the results of which were announced today. This assures the election of Walsh, as only one candidate is nominated.

Walsh were nominated; financial secretary-treasurer, Ernest O. M. Fehrnstrom, the incumbent, and Albert J. Craig; recording secretary, John W. Turley and John H. ### RANDOLPH WILL PAY $1,500 TO TROLLEY ROAD

Randolph, Nov. 25.—The voters of Randolph at an adjourned town meeting voted that the town treasurer, with the approval of the Selectmen, pay to the Eastern Massachusetts Railway Company the sum of $1,500, providing the town of Braintree will pay the same amount, to assure the continuation of Bay State car service between South Braintree square and Crawford square, Randolph. The vote was 125 for and 17 against the payment of the money.

A lengthy discussion preceded the vote. One man in his protest against voting the sum said that there were two kinds of holdups, one by yeggs and the other brought about by legal process.

TORMENTED MERCHANT SHOOTS, BOY WOUNDED

Pawtucket, R. I., Nov. 25.—Boys, said to have been tormenting Moses Brown, a Cumberland storekeeper, resulted in the shooting of William McCaffrey, 15, who is in the hospital in a serious condition, and the arrest of Brown who pleaded guilty and is held for trial December 9 in $1,000 bonds. The police say the boys were opening and closing the door of the store and annoying Brown in other ways. Brown is said to have fired shooting to frighten the boys, after which the McCaffrey boy came to the home of Brown's grandmother, Mrs. George Harrison of Highland avenue, and later sent to the hospital, where efforts to dislodge the bullet were unavailing.

Lieutenant Stocker, because of his flights over the North Sea during the war, was known as the premier flyer of the United States Navy.

CHILDREN GIVE $100.

Mr. Sawtelle lives at Melrose Highlands and is the Boston stock exchange member of his firm, which was formerly known as Kenway & Mallard Company. He is also a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. His hobby is rambling through the woods near his New Hampshire bungalow or casting for gamey bass in the nearby lake.

June and Betty Green have the honor of being the children to contribute the largest sum to the basket fund. Through their daddy, S. R. Green, they sent in $100. Mr. Green is a leading Boston business man.

City Clerk James Donovan has contributed $10.

Ernest J. Goulston's contribution of $25 came with the following letter: "I do not know of any better charity in Boston than one that helps to bring joy into the homes of Boston's needy on Christmas Day. Enclosed please find my check for $25. I wish it were a hundred times as much."

TUOHEY AIDS FUND.

George V. Tuohey, widely known sports promoter, writes: "Inclosed find check for $10 for the basket fund, an institution singularly appealing, as it means family dinners at home on the day of days through out the world."

With a donation of one dollar a letter was received reading "Troop 4, Roxbury Girl Scouts of America, takes great pleasure in sending the enclosed dollar as a troop contribution to the Christmas Basket Fund of the Boston American. Dorothy Green, Captain."

The Boston Jesters, a social organization composed of men connected with the theatrical profession, sent a check for $25. B. Moscow is president of the organization.

Twenty-four pretty and well-to-do Dorchester and Jamaica Plain girls, Italian parentage, who recently organized the Chatterbox Club, are planning to raise several hundred dollars for the Christmas Basket Fund, after their dance in aid of the poor people of Plume la Mott of the town. The dance is to conducted at the Opera Chateau December 4, and is to be a formal affair. All the tickets have been sold.

The money obtained will be sent direct to Gabriele D'Annunzio, the great Italian patriot, who is a strong favorite of the members of the club. They hope to secure a letter of acknowledgment in his own handwriting and it will be framed and placed in the future clubhouse which the girls hope to build. At present the girls are meeting at the homes of members. Their mothers will be matrons at the dance and their brothers will be aids.

DANCE COMMITTEE.

Those who are arranging for the dance are Misses Ida T. and Elvira F. Levis, Anna Soracco, Alma Locatelli, Lillian Piotti, Minnie Ferri and Eleanor DiStasio. Other members of the club are Laura LoPresti, editor of LaNottzia, Harriet Piotti, Ernestine and Evelyn Fiegi, Helen and Blanche Leonardi, Etta Tranfaglia, Alma Carabbio, Hattie and Isabel Bonaglia, Josephine and Mabel Bonaglia, Beatrice DiStasio, Theresa DiVizia, Federo Dagostino, Elvira Balcarcco and Selina Connoselli.

Not all the pathetic appeals received by the Boston American editor are for food. One has been received from a man who has lost both legs. He asks a Christmas present of work for the Winter. He does not ask charity —just a chance to earn his own living. His letter follows:

"This appeal may seem a bit out of place in your column, but the Boston American is always willing to help a deserving case. I am writing to you in the hope of some one, filled with the Christmas feeling, will notice my appeal. I am a young man—lost both legs—and am trying to obtain work for the Winter. I have good eyesight, a good pair of hands, and have been given credit for having an average amount of intelligence. I feel sure that some one will give me a Christmas present in the form of employment for the Winter. Such a present would surely be appreciated. May your Christmas Basket Fund prove a success."

APPEALS PATHETIC.

Dear Editor: I am writing to ask if you could help me by sending me a Christmas basket for the sake of my little ones. I am the mother of three children. I am only a young girl and my husband is young too. We are just starting out in life so it is hard for just one pair of hands to do for my little ones. This is my first time to ask for help, but everything is so high that we cannot get along, and there will be nothing much to feed next month. My husband gets only $12 a week, and there are bills that have got to be paid, so I ask you in the name of God to help me, although I might not be able to enjoy it myself, but it will make me happy if my little ones are happy. May God bless you.

Dear Sir: Will you kindly send me a Christmas Basket? I have nine children and the youngest is fourteen months old. What little my husband gets is not enough to support us, as things are so high. Sometimes we do not have anything to eat but bread, and when I do get a big meal (when my husband works overtime) the children are all so happy, so please do not forget to send us a basket. I wish you good luck in your work.

IN THIS NEEDY FAMILY.

Dear Sir: I am a girl fourteen years old and I have six younger brothers and sisters. Our father has been out of work for some time and we will not have any Christmas dinner if you can't send us a basket. We have never written for a basket before, but this year we need one very much. Please send one and make seven children happy on Christmas morning.

Dear Sir: I am a poor girl of thirteen, and am one of nine children. My father got drowned while on a fishing schooner. Since then we have lived in poverty. We shall have nothing like a Christmas dinner. My mother has to go to work in the buildings and I have to go to the dumps and pick wood.

Dear Boston American: There is an old lady living next door to me who is very poor. She has no shoes or clothes of any kind. All she has is old rags. She can't go out to work because she is too old. I know she would be very glad if you would send her a basket, because she never has a good Christmas. Please do not forget her.

Dear Sir: I have no father and there are seven children in the family. I would like a basket for Christmas, and I wish you could send me some shoes and stockings, for I am very cold. Please don't forget to send me something for Christmas.

Dear Boston American: I am thirteen years old. I have written to you twice before and you did not forget me, and we are very grateful for it. My mother works very hard and we barely make a living. Father has been in the hospital seven years. I hope you will not forget to send us a basket.

MOTHERS FORCED TO WORK.

Dear Sir: I am a little girl eleven years of age and we have ten in the family with only one brother working, and my poor mother goes out a few days a week so as to help more. We would be very glad if you could send us a basket this year, as it is quite hard to get along, and we would enjoy it very much. Please try and send one if you can.

Dear Sir: I am the mother of a baby ten months old and am in very poor health. I have been going out to work all Summer, but lately I feel that I am not able to work every day. My husband is trying hard every day to find work, but he hasn't got any yet. There is over two months rent due now, and a grocery bill to pay. I have to pay for everything we get now and that isn't much on account of the high cost of living. I can't even get a little sugar for the baby. My mother-in-law, who is a cripple, is living with us, and when I am away working she does the best she can, but sometimes she gets so weak she faints. For her sake and the baby's please send us a basket, as I would like to see them happy on Christmas Day, and I am sure God will reward you for the good work you are engaged in. May God bless you.

AN UNFORTUNATE FAMILY.

Dear Editor: Will you please give me a Christmas basket this year? You gave us one last year and we enjoyed it very much. We wouldn't have had any dinner if it hadn't been for you. My poor mother has to work every day and she is not able to buy us a Christmas dinner. My father does not stay home. He used to drink and fight with us, and the policemen put him out. He won't give us any money, so poor mama has to work very hard. I hope you will remember us this year.

Dear Sir: I am writing you of a family that is in great need, and would be very thankful to receive one of your baskets. One little boy is in the hospital from scarlet fever. One was run over by an automobile last Summer and is lame. Another arrival is expected any day, and as the father's pay is small, it is very hard for them to get along. I cannot help them as I am in poor circumstances. Please try and help them.

AUTO FIRM OFFERS YALE HERO $15,000 POSITION

Lawrence, Nov. 25.—Captain John T. Callahan of the Yale eleven, son of Mrs. Mary E. Callahan of Sunset avenue, has had a "real job" offered him in the form of a $15,000 a year berth with an automobile firm. It is said that Callahan will accept the offer, and will commence his duties at the close of his Yale studies in June. Harry Callahan of Princeton, his brother, visited his home during the week-end and expressed the opinion that Yale "had it all over Harvard and should have won."

N. H. GOVERNOR LEADS DEAN CASE PROBE

No Expense Will Be Spared to Clear Up Mystery; American Praised

lican," showed keen interest in the tragedy which has stirred the inhabitants of East Jaffrey, Dublin, Peterboro and Greenville. He declared that it was a case so vital that the State of New Hampshire could not afford to lose sight of it for an instant. He added:

"I have read about it from time to time in the American, but unfortunately I was too busy to give it the close study that it deserves. I had supposed that it had been thoroughly probed in view of the fact that there had been a grand jury inquiry. I had not heard of the enemy phases, which put a new complexion on the affair.

EXPENSE NOT CONSIDERED.

"It doesn't matter whether there has been a previous grand jury hearing, if facts and developments warrant another such inquiry we shall order it. Time and expense should not be considered. The State of New Hampshire does not propose to stop the Dean case. If evidence points to certain individuals we want to know it.

"There have been too many murders permitted to go unsolved. We had one right in our own city which was never cleared up. This is a dangerous custom. It undermines respect for our laws and institutions. That is why the Dean case should be sifted from every possible aspect and the whole story heard. It doesn't make any difference if it takes ten years. It ought to be cleared up to the satisfaction of the citizens of East Jaffrey and the State.

"With that end in view I think it best to have the facts laid before the members of the council and myself at the regular meeting."

After the interview in his office the Governor reported his decision to the Portsmouth Times, which came out with the following account as the lead story under heavy headlines:

LAID POSES ACTIVITIES.

"Bert Ford of the Boston American, who has been making personal investigations of the murder of Dr. Dean at East Jaffrey in August, 1918, and who believes he has evidence to show that this murder was committed at the instigation of German spies to form a signal station in that vicinity, visited Portsmouth today and presented the matter to Governor Bartlett with the request for securing his co-operation and direction in instituting prosecutions.

"The Governor conferred with Mr. Ford's theory of the murder and invited him to present the case to the Governor and council and the Attorney General at their session.

"The fact stands out that Dr. Dean, a thirty-year resident of the town of East Jaffrey and a respectable citizen was horribly murdered by someone who has never been prosecuted. He was tied, bound and gagged and thrown into a well in front of his own house at midnight.

"He had ordered off his premises, shortly before, a man suspected of being a German spy. Signal lights and other such activities had been seen. Dr. Dean's act in notifying the Federal authorities is the motive.

FIRST INQUIRY "SPARCE."

"Governor Bartlett told the reporter that New Hampshire could not afford to allow any murderer to go unpunished whatever the cost. It encourages other murderers to think they can get away with it and thereby undermines the whole strength of our law and order. He said, for instance, that the Hilton murder here in Portsmouth was an awful thing because it tended to show that you can get away with murder even here."

This semi-editorial news feature was written without the knowledge of the American representative who talked with Governor Bartlett, and was interpreted by local newspapermen as reflecting the deep interest that the chief executive took in the tragedy, which has developed into a real scandal in Cheshire County, and which has aroused the indignation not only of the 2,580 inhabitants of East Jaffrey, but also that of members of the fashionable Summer colony who have mountain estates in the vicinity.

They have been demanding action for months. A grand jury inquiry was held reluctantly nine months after the tragedy, and the Selectmen of East Jaffrey claim it was a "farce."

Inventory Robie Estate

An inventory of the estate of Professor H. Robie of Watertown has been filed. The estate is valued at $178.—587.41.

East Jaffrey Officials Laud American for Dean Murder Probe

"As members of the Board of Selectmen of East Jaffrey, N. H., and as American citizens, we wish to thank the Boston American, on behalf of ourselves and the citizens of the town, for its very able and fearless expose of the scandal growing out of the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean on the night of August 13, 1918.

"For fourteen months we had been fighting to have the death of Dr. Dean avenged and his murderers brought to justice. We met friction and opposition in official circles. The Boston American was the first newspaper in New England with sufficient courage and interest in the public welfare to come to our aid with a campaign of publicity which was eminently accurate and fair to all concerned.

"We have no axes to grind in this case. We are not inspired by political motive or personal rancor. We wish to safeguard everybody's interests and to wipe out unjust suspicion.

"But what we do want is to let the world know that agents of Germany or any other hostile country cannot come in our midst and murder one of our most loyal and patriotic citizens. We don't care where the guilt may fall. We want the persons who committed that murder punished.

"We feel that the reputation of New Hampshire and the sacredness and security of American institutions are involved in this case. It is far more than a country murder. There has been trickery and intrigue.

"We demand a second and sweeping Grand Jury investigation. We call upon our State Executive and all others to act. Our community will not be at peace until the Dean mystery has been cleared up.

"Property values have actually depreciated. Several of our most prominent Summer residents have forsaken their estates owing to the public dread. Some have placed their property on sale. It is a serious problem with us, and that is why we feel so grateful and wish again to thank the Boston American for its kindly and patriotic support.

BIG DEMAND FOR WHISKEY MADE IN BATHTUB

New Bedford Police Confiscate Still Turning Out $2.75 Per Quart Product

New Bedford, Nov. 25.—Phillias Methot made whiskey "while you wait" in the bathtub at his home on Belleville avenue, and a long line of customers were waiting before his door to be served when policemen raided the place and confiscated the still.

Methot is a cripple, but, according to his own story, found a living easy after prohibition came into force. He set up a still in the bathtub and distilled several gallons of good whiskey every day, selling it for $2.75 a quart.

He had so many visitors that Patrolman James J. McDonnell became suspicious. Inspectors John T. McKay and Hermes Trudeau got, leading the strong-arm squad attached to the Northern Station, were among those who went to Methot's tenement, and when they came away the still, together with about fifty gallons of whiskey, came with them.

Methot was not arrested.

What It Is And How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve-Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms and busts and eradicating ugly hollows and angles to the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their deficiency.

PROVIDENCE WOMAN HELD AT BORDER

Husband Protests Action of Maine Officials; Perjury Charge Pending

Providence, R. I., Nov. 25.—Fred J. Lord of Indiana avenue today requested the Federal authorities to hurry the unwinding of official red tape, so that his wife, Mrs. Sadie Lord, who is at the present time located at Prince Edward Island, can rejoin him at their home in this city, where they have lived for the past twenty years.

The Federal authorities in Maine refuse to allow Mrs. Lord to cross the border line, as they allege she committed perjury several weeks ago when she became involved in a controversy over the admittance of her sister. The latter was being transferred here from Canada for her health. It is alleged Mrs. Lord stated at the time her husband was a citizen. Federal authorities on investigation learned that her husband has only taken out his first papers.

Miss Emily Grant, the sick sister of Mrs. Lord, returned to Canada, accompanied by Mrs. Lord, two weeks ago, and when the latter tried to get over the Maine border Federal authorities refused her admittance.

However, it is expected the court will allow Mrs. Lord to return here, pending the decision of the perjury charge, which she is at the present time out on bail on.

SIXTEEN FILE PAPERS FOR CITY COUNCIL

Sixteen candidates have filed papers for election to the three vacancies in the City Council, and of these it appears to be anybody's guess as to who will get the G. G. A. support.

All of the candidates who have taken out papers have filed sufficient signatures to insure their names being placed on the ballot and the chances of any more candidates entering the fight are remote.

WINTHROP WINS PREMIER STATE FIRE HONORS

During the year 1918 Winthrop suffered less from the effects of fire than any other town in Massachusetts, according to figures compiled by the Fire Prevention Commissioner for the district police. Winthrop's loss, $3,800, was more than 100 per cent. less than her nearest competitors for low honors, the towns of Reading and Milton. They each suffered losses of $6,400.

LEMKE MURDER STILL MYSTERY TO OFFICIALS

More Baffling and Startling the Deeper His Probe, Says District Attorney

New York, Nov. 25.—"The deeper I dig into this case the more baffling and startling it becomes. It is the strangest case in my official career."

This was the comment of District Attorney Morrin, of Queens County, following the third day's investigation into the death of John W. Lemke, of Flushing, L. I.

On October 19, Lemke's body, completely attired in woman's clothes, was found in the cabin of his motor yacht in Flushing Bay.

Determined to solve the question of whether Lemke took his life or was murdered, Mr. Morrin again quizzed a number of witnesses at the Queens County Courthouse.

Close scrutiny was made of the woman's shoes Lemke wore and his own shoes. It was evident the leather on both pairs of shoes had been worn off in the same way and in the same places. The heels on both pairs were worn off on the back centre edge. Likewise both were worn down in the middle sole and not on the side.

Apparently the same kind of grease secretions were found on both pairs of shoes. These will be analyzed. It was evident the woman's shoes had never been worn on the street.

During the session an anonymous letter was received by the district attorney. It stated that a man named Hiller of East Eighty-fourth street, Manhattan, could furnish pertinent information. It was said Mrs. Lemke's brother, Otto Hiller of No. 444 East Eighty-fourth street, was the man referred to. Mr. Hiller will be asked to appear before the district attorney, and some importance was also attached to a letter Miss Mildred Lemke wrote to her brother more than a year ago. The last paragraph said:

"I sacrifice my present happiness for your healthful pleasure."

In this letter she is said to have chided her brother for carrying about a purple veil. Mr. Lemke and his daughter again appeared before the district attorney today and were further questioned.

KIDNAPING IS DENIED BY 'BLOND VAMP'

Show Girl Laughs at Charge of Theatrical Manager's Wife

New York, Nov. 25.—Just fancy, if you can, pretty little Katherine Coleman, the show-girl, not only "vamping," but actually kidnaping a full-grown man.

Katherine can't imagine it herself, and yet that is what Mrs. Anna Sauer, known on the stage as Anna Sawyer, declares the showgirl did—kidnap Mrs. Sauer's husband, Louis G. Sauer. The accusation was made when Mrs. Sauer started a divorce suit, naming Miss Coleman.

"Can you imagine me, a poor, innocent young girl of twenty-two, kidnaping a great big husky man like Luis?" she demanded, when asked if Mrs. Sauer's charge was true and, if true, where she had concealed the kidnaped theatrical manager.

"She called me a 'blonde vamp,'" continued the little actress, showing some well-cared-for teeth in a broad smile. "Ain't that the nicest thing? I'm certainly glad that the blonde vamp has come at last into her own. And I see she says her husband has been kidnaped by a Broadway beauty. Sure, I'm beautiful," she admitted, more or less modestly. "Anyone could see that. Mr. Sauer loves me and wants to marry me—but I didn't pull any vamp stuff on him."

KREISLER PLAYS IN WORCESTER TONIGHT

Legion Men "Neutral;" Violinist Will Open With "Star Spangled Banner"

Worcester, Nov. 25.—Fritz Kreisler, Austrian violinist, who has been a storm centre for weeks in connection with his concert scheduled for tonight in Mechanics Hall, will open the program by playing "The Star Spangled Banner." This, it is hoped by those eager to hear the famous artist, will tend to placate the element that has fought against his appearance on the ground that he is an "enemy alien."

Frank B. Hall, chairman of the Republican State Committee, leader of the opposition to Kreisler's appearance, was today accused of playing politics, and of using the term "Americanization" as a propaganda slogan. Hall was the principal speaker at a hearing before the licensing board on Monday afternoon, when a number of other speakers pro and con, had been heard, the board decided to revoke the license for the concert. Charles A. Ellis, Kreisler's manager, pointed out that those protesting at the eleventh hour had months in which to voice their objections, as the contract had been made last February and the announcement of the concert had been published at an early date.

The hall is sold out for tonight, it was announced; but those desiring tickets were encouraged by reports that many "patriotic" objectors had torn up their tickets, and that there would consequently be empty seats not listed at the box office.

American Legion officers declined to be identified with the opposition, and expressed resentment at reports that various members of the Legion had pressed to represent the local post in opposing Kreisler. It was said that the post was neutral, and that its members would not attend the concert.

UNITED STATES GRAIN CORPORATION

To Consumers of FLOUR

Our attention has been called to rumors, possibly inspired by overzealous flour salesmen, to the effect that there is an impending flour scarcity in this country.

The facts of the flour situation are simple and there is no need for consumers to be alarmed. There are ample stocks both of wheat and of flour in this country, stocks far in excess of the usual supplies at this season. It is true that there is a shortage of the grades of hard wheats of which hard wheat patent flours are made, and it is for this reason that flour buyers are paying extravagant prices for the patent grades.

This does not mean that there is not enough flour to go around. There is enough wheat and enough flour to take care of all our requirements. There will be no more "War Flour," "Victory Flour," or flour "substitutes."

On the other hand, the UNITED STATES GRAIN CORPORATION is preparing to market from its large stocks as much standard quality flour of straight grade as the consuming public cares to buy. Arrangements are being perfected to place this flour in retail packages with the leading retail dealers of this city and within a few days buyers may know where to purchase UNITED STATES GRAIN CORPORATION Standard Pure Wheat Flour at a large saving as compared with current retail prices for the patent grades.

BAXTER AND FRIENDS DECLARE WAR AGAINST COOLIDGE AND CRANE

RESENT DROPPING OF M'CALL MEN BY GOVERNOR

hope to serve. And I would not take the position as a cog to my feelings.

"During the last campaign I did everything in my power to roll up a great vote for Governor Coolidge. From all sections of this State the Republicans and Independents who were with me in the Roosevelt campaigns who so worked night and day in the interests of Governor McCall rallied with me to the support of the Governor.

"It was at a time when the Governor's professional friends were very much scared. As usual, they had not read the signs of the times correctly. They were very much afraid the tide had set in against Coolidge.

"No candidate for public office ever received such hearty, untiring and unselfish support as Governor Coolidge had from the members of the committees working in harmony with me and under my direction. The reward has been a wholesale removal of men appointed to important public offices by Governor McCall."

LIEUTENANTS CONFER.

Today there was a conference of Baxter lieutenants in his office. They were more communicative than Mr. Baxter, and openly declared that the list of appointments sent to the Council yesterday by the Governor was dictated by a notorious lobbyist and submitted to former Senator Crane for approval.

They also charged that a study of the list would prove that most of the appointees are men friendly to the former Senator and who would follow his orders rather than those of Senator Lodge.

Following the conference, one of the Baxter lieutenants, speaking for several of them, said that from now on there would be a divided Republican party in Massachusetts, with Senator Lodge and Mr. Baxter in charge of one side and former Senator Crane and Governor Coolidge directing the other.

Crane, he said, had been attempting for several weeks to bring about a compromise agreement on the question of delegates to the next national Republican convention, he to name one-half the state and Lodge the other half, with the understanding that the entire delegation would go favorable to Coolidge for nomination as President or Vice-President.

"That is all off now," said the Baxter men. "We will be with Lodge if Lodge will stick to us, but we'll be against Crane and Coolidge with or without Lodge. If Coolidge does not appreciate the service to the State which has been given by public officials who are our friends, and if he does not appreciate our work in behalf of the Republican party, there is no reason why we should continue to support him or be fooled by his political father, Murray Crane."

"CRANE DECEIVED McCALL."

"Four years ago Crane deceived Governor McCall and Mr. Baxter. He broke a solemn promise which he gave them. If he denies this statement, the proof of it will be produced. More than that, he betrayed ex-Senator John W. Weeks, but whether Weeks realizes it or not, whether he will admit it or not, we can prove it. There will be no compromise Coolidge delegation to the national convention. Either our forces will win—that is, the Lodge-Baxter team—or the Crane-Coolidge forces will win, and we are willing to wager a little something right now, it will not be the latter."

Mr. Baxter's letter of resignation to Coolidge follows:

"I am informed through the newspapers that you have sent my name to the Governor's Council as a member of the Metropolitan District Commission.

"I hereby request you to withdraw my name from the Council, as I do not desire to accept the appointment."

(Baxter's attack on the Governor is the first big rift in the Coolidge political ranks and means that the fight against his presidential aspirations and the political elimination of Senator W. Murray Crane and the ascendency of Senator Lodge is on in earnest.

WAS McCALL'S MANAGER.

Mr. Baxter managed the three successful campaigns of Governor McCall, he managed the successful campaign of the "Regular Four" to the Republican National Convention and was tremendously influential in State House affairs during the three years of the McCall regime. He was also called in by the Republican organization during the campaign and in the closing days organized a whirlwind tour of the State in behalf of Governor Coolidge.

At least six of Baxter's friends, holding responsible and high salaried State positions, were dropped by Governor Coolidge in the great shakeup. What the Governor did to Baxter, was one of the interesting and most prominent topics of discussion when the committee list was announced. Putting it briefly, and accurately, if not elegantly, it was generally regarded as a "slam" to the former Mayor of Medford.

The list of Baxter's friends ousted by Governor Coolidge and their salaries included:

BAXTER MEN OUSTED.

Former Senator Edward C. R. Bagley, director of prisons, $6,000; Solomon Lewenberg, member of the State Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners, $4,500; former Congressman William S. McNary, member of the Waterways Commission, $4,000; Frank Lewis, fire prevention commissioner, $3,500; J. Walter Mullen, member of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, $2,500; Richard J. McCormick, member of the State Board of Parole, $1,800.

Mr. Baxter was appointed by Governor McCall to the Metropolitan Park Commission when Edwin U. Curtis, a member of the Commission, was appointed Police Commissioner of Boston. The salary was $600. Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board were combined in the shakeup into the Metropolitan District Commission and Governor Coolidge appointed Mr. Baxter to the new commission, at a salary of $1,000. It is this position which Mr. Baxter described as a "sop" to himself, and which he declines to take.

Because of Baxter's prominence in the Republican party, his open row with Governor Coolidge is generally expected to have serious and far-reaching effects. The first clash will probably come in the national convention election next spring when an attempt will be made to send a Coolidge delegation from Massachusetts.

CONFIRMATION DELAYED.

Confirmation of the appointments by the Governor's Council will probably be delayed until next Monday. Governor Coolidge announced today.

"The Council will meet tomorrow," he said, "and could confirm the appointments under suspension of the rules, but I doubt if that will be done. I expect to call the Council together next Monday for the purpose of taking action on confirmation.

"I do not anticipate any contest over confirmation. Members of the council had discussed the matter with me, and while I was not in a position, because of several reasons, to name all suggested by them, I feel they are satisfied with the appointments as a whole. They spoke well of them yesterday."

Governor Coolidge declined to comment upon the resignation of Mr. Baxter. "I have received his resignation," he said. "I suppose you know of it, too," was the extent of his comment.

Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert of Belmont, newly appointed Commissioner of Agriculture, has been for the past three years manager of the agricultural department of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. Prior to entering the Chamber of Commerce he was a professor in the agricultural department of Cornell University. Dr. Gilbert has received degrees from the Massachusetts Agricultural College, Boston University and Cornell. He is the author of a score of books dealing with the science of agriculture. As manager of the agricultural department of the Chamber of Commerce he was instrumental in solving the milk problem and came into contact with State officials.

DEPOSED MEN SURPRISED.

Several officials deposed by the new appointments expressed surprise today.

State Forester Frank W. Rane, who is succeeded by former Senator William A. L. Bazeley, said:

"I am very much surprised. I had been led to believe that everything was satisfactory in my case and that I need not send friends or letters to the Governor. I am not bitter because I realize we must take things as they come in public life.

"After serving the State for four years, however, this seems rather short notice."

Fred J. Macleod, head of the Public Service Commission, who is to be succeeded by former School Committeeman David A. Ellis, said:

"I am somewhat surprised. I made no attempt in any way to influence the Governor's action in the matter. I assumed my record was well known. The matter of appointment was of course, entirely in the discretion of the Governor."

SCHAFF SERVED 26 YEARS.

General Morris Schaff, veteran member of the Gas and Electric Light Commission, said:

"I have served Massachusetts since 1893 and I think I shall content myself with saying that I have done the best I could."

Wilfrid Wheeler, who is deposed as Commissioner of Agriculture, and Elmer L. Curtis, removed as head of the Civil Service Commission, each said: "I am surprised."

Edward C. R. Bagley, who was dropped from his $6,000 job as Director of Prisons, said:

"I am greatly surprised and disappointed, but at this time I have no further statement to make."

ONE OF "BIG SIX."

Bagley was one of the Baxter Big Six whose heads fell into the bag. He has been prominent in politics for years, was a member of the State Senate and a member of the Baxter Flying Squadron which toured the State for Governor Coolidge.

It is reported that during the recent campaign Mr. Bagley went through East Boston Senatorial District urging his friends to support Governor Coolidge on the ground that a vote for Coolidge is a vote for my position."

It is also said that friends of Bagley were anxious to make a fight for him in the Governor's Council, but that he has discouraged that method of attack.

Coolidge Indorsed for Presidential Race by Winthrop Republicans

Governor Calvin Coolidge was endorsed for the Republican nomination for President of the United States by the Republican Club of Winthrop at a meeting in War Veterans Hall, Winthrop.

In the event the Governor becomes a candidate, the entire support of the club was pledged to him. It was the first endorsement the Governor has received from any organization for the Presidency, although his name has frequently been spoken of for the highest office in the land since his re-election to the governorship.

The Coolidge resolution was presented by William J. Marsh, who is vice-commander of the Winthrop Post of the American Legion. It was promptly passed. The club has a membership of about 500 and more than half of the members attended the meeting.

CALL CHELSEA POLICE TO CATCH AN OWL

Residents in the vicinity of Clarke and Washington avenues, Chelsea, have been disturbed during the last two nights by an active but elusive screech owl. The little marauder starts in his disturbance between 3 and 10 o'clock. The police have been asked to capture the birds. During the day the owl flits from one chimney to another in an effort to escape capture. The police base given as an alibi that it is against the game laws to shoot the owl.

Smokers Open War on Anti-Tobacco Forces

Washington, Nov. 25.—The smokers are ready for a fight.

The National Tobacco League of America, organized to combat anti-tobacco legislation, has opened headquarters here to keep a watchful eye on Congress.

Today the league issued a scathing denunciation of Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the temperance board of the Methodist Church, declaring that he has cast serious reflections upon those American soldiers who smoked cigarettes in line of battle.

In an open letter to Bishop McDowell of the Methodist Church the league today declared that smokers are "God-fearing people" and "their quarrel is never with the church, but it is with those members of it who prefer fanaticism to the Christianity that respects the truth as Jesus taught it."

URGES RENT RAISE IN THE MARKET DISTRICT

Haste in gaining rents in the city-owned Faneuil Hall and Quincy Markets in order to relieve the acute need of additional revenue, is urged by the Finance Commission today in a communication addressed to Mayor Peters and the City Council. The commission points out that the matter has been before the council since September 2 and approval of its recommendations is still lacking. The rentals would be jumped from $130,802 per year to $176,526 if its recommendations were adopted. This for this period of a ten-year lease would mean an additional revenue of $197,000, the commission pointed out in a previous report.

MAINE GUARDSMEN DRILL WITHOUT PAY

Augusta, Me., Nov. 25.—The units of the National Guard in this State are complaining, because they have not received any money from the Federal government for their drills for nearly two years. Adjutant-General Presson of the State has sent the records of the drills, made by Company E, Third Infantry, to Colonel W. P. Martin in charge of militia affairs. Nothing is heard from them. Colonel Martin maintains the vouchers for the pay are made out correctly, and he has so informed the adjutant-general of the State.

COOKS TELL HOW TO ROAST THANKSGIVING TURKEY

How do you stuff your turkey? Did you ever hear of putting sausages in the dressing? Bacon? Tomatoes? All these ingredients are good, say American readers. There are almost as many different ways of cooking and stuffing the famous bird for Thanksgiving as there are families to eat it.

Here are some of the recipes submitted in the American's prize contest, the winners of which will be announced tomorrow:

HERE'S AN IDEAL RECIPE.

Select your turkey, clean and wash thoroughly. For dressing take bread, crumble it fine, two chopped onions, a tablespoonful of butter, Summer savory, one raw egg, pepper and salt. Mix these ingredients with milk. Stuff, tie wings and legs, place in a pan with two tablespoonfuls of beef drippings. Put the bird in a good, hot oven for ten minutes to shut the pores. After this cook more slowly. The secret of having meat well roasted is to have an even heat and to baste it very frequently. Basting keeps the meat from becoming dry. Chop up one onion and put in the pan the turkey was cooked in. Add flour and water, pepper and salt. Cook till the gravy becomes brown, then strain. Add giblets if you prefer.

MRS. JESSIE FIELD,
7 Bloomington street, Neponset, Mass.

A TASTY DISH.

One loaf of bread.
One teaspoonful of seasoning.
One teaspoon of salt.
One teaspoon of pepper.
One-half pound of sausage.
Few slices of bacon.

Pass bacon and sausage through the meat chopper, mix with other ingredients, and stuff the turkey with this. My family liked this dressing very much.

MRS. JOHN HART.
16 East st., Dorchester.

WELL FLAVORED TURKEY.

May I send you in my recipe for cooking a 14-pound turkey?

Crumble one loaf of bread.
Chop fine one-half pound of suet.
One cup of parsley.
Four eggs, pepper and salt to taste.

Mix the ingredients together and stuff the bird. Take two sausages and stuff the neck of the turkey with these. Bake in a moderate oven.

M. CORBIN.
31 Cottage st., East Boston.

DELICIOUS THIS WAY.

Wash and wipe turkey thoroughly, rub inside and out with pepper. Make a dressing of one loaf of stale bread. Cut the bread in small dices and brown golden. Mix six stalks of celery cut fine. Add to this two medium size onions cut fine. Season with one teaspoonful of sage, black pepper and red pepper mixed in equal portions, and a pinch of salt. Moisten with one cup of milk. Stuff the turkey and sew up. Tie the wings and legs down. Place in a hot oven until it begins to brown, then cook in slow oven, allowing 12 minutes to each pound of turkey. Baste often with gravy in pan. Brown golden on each side.

To make gravy, cut liver and giblets up very fine. Remove grease from the pan that the turkey is cooked in. Add a pint of water to the turkey gravy. Thicken with a little flour.

MRS. J. P. WOOTEN.
40 Munroe street, Roxbury.

AN EXCELLENT RECIPE.

My way of cooking a turkey is as follows: Clean the turkey thoroughly with salt and water. In case it is not as tender as it should be, pour a little vinegar in the inside and let it stand for an hour or more. Wash thoroughly. Take a stale loaf of bread and allow it to soak in hot water until moist. Take two eggs, salt, pepper, and a pint of oysters. Add prepared seasoning and small piece of butter. Add some tomatoes, two onions, warmed up together, before being added to the turkey. Then sew up bird. Turn wings across the back and tie legs together. Put in a large bake pan, sprinkle turkey with salt and pepper and little pieces of butter. For basting, keep a cupful of hot water with some butter melted in it on the back of stove. Baste often till done.

MRS. McCLINTOLK.
63 Brookline street, Cambridge.

THIS ALWAYS PLEASES.

Before washing the turkey hold it over a sharp fire to singe the hairs. Then wash inside and out and wipe. Let set over night. Use this recipe for dressing.

Take three pounds of pork, at the end where there are no bones. Pass through the meat chopper. Then take four or five onions and chop fine. Mix these with the pork. Cook in an old-fashioned iron kettle enough water to cover, season well with salt and pepper and let it cook till water has all boiled away. Then take a knife and stir; at the same time let the meat roast a little. When done, add five or six medium-sized potatoes, well mashed. Mix with pork. Add three teaspoons of poultry seasoning.

In the morning take the turkey and pull out all the pin feathers. Fill neck with the dressing and sew up. Tie end of neck up so dressing won't run out. Fill the inside the same way. Tie the wings by passing a string under the turkey, and do the same to the legs. Place turkey in pan, with about three inches of water in the bottom of pan. Put a little salt over the top and place in oven. Baste often until thoroughly brown. Do not have oven too hot as it will scorch too quickly and dry up. After the turkey is done take some of the juice, add flour, chicken gravy and serve.

MRS. R. LOHMES.
No. 40 Essex street, Lynn.

A POPULAR RECIPE.

Select a young turkey, remove all the feathers. Carefully singe it over a burner. Use newspaper on top of stove. Then draw it nicely, being careful not to break any internal organs. Remove the crop, cut head and tie the neck close to the body by drawing the skin over it. Now rinse the inside of the turkey several times, to which add a teaspoonful of baking soda. Oftentimes the inside of a turkey is sour, especially if it is not freshly killed. Soda acts as a corrective and destroys that unpleasant taste which sometimes noticed in the dressing if the bird has been killed for some time.

Now, after washing, wipe turkey dry inside and out. Rub the inside with salt, then stuff the breast and body with dressing. Sew turkey and tie the legs and wings to body. Rub over with soft butter. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, in pan and pour in a cup of boiling water. Put in oven and baste often. Turn often so it will cook even. When pierced with a fork, if liquid runs out perfectly clear, the bird is done. A fifteen-pound turkey requires four hours to bake.

Dressing. Take a large loaf of bread, cut off crust, put in dish and pour tepid water, not warm as that makes it heavy. After soaking five minutes, squeeze dry with hands. Then add pepper and salt—about a teaspoonful, a half cup of melted butter, a teaspoonful of Summer savory and a teaspoonful sage. A little chopped sausage improves the dressing.

Gravy: Have liver, gizzard and heart well boiled and when turkey is cooked add them to the gravy that dripped from the turkey. Set on stove and boil for three minutes, thickening with flour.

Fried oysters, thin slices of ham, lemon, fried sausages or parsley may be used for garnishes.

MRS. MARY REGAN,
No. 61 Grove street, Chelsea.

TRAIN YOUR HAIR AS AN ACTRESS DOES

No class of people devotes as much time to beauty as do actresses, and no class must be more careful to retain and develop their charms. Inquiry develops the information that in hair care they find it dangerous to shampoo with any makeshift hair cleanser. The majority say that to have the best hair wash and scalp right you need at most of about three cents, one need only get a package of canthrox from your druggist, dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply first to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. After its use the hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Sandruff, excess oil and dirt are quickly dissolved and entirely disappear when you rinse the hair. After this your hair will be so fluffy it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will delight you, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

OMAHA BEAUTY SEEKS 'LOST' PAINTINGS HERE

Mrs. Margaret Cutts Judson of Omaha, who seeks the two famous oil paintings of her grandparents in Boston. Boston courts may yet be invoked to aid her in the quest for the paintings, the alleged disappearance of which is agitating art circles. Mrs. Judson is well known in western society and her niece, Louise Cutts Powell of Boston, may figure as a defendant in the threatened litigation.

Two famous Boston oil paintings are to be prizes in a family tug-of-war in prospect for Boston, in which Mrs. Margaret Cutts Judson of Omaha promises to be the complainant, and her niece, Miss Louise Cutts Powell of the Hotel Brunswick, will be the defendant.

The paintings are portraits of Mrs. Judson's great grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cutts. They have been much sought after for various purposes. Aside from the artistic merit of the paintings as works of art, they have a sentimental value, in that Paul Revere is said to have carved the frames.

Mrs. Judson's threat of litigation followed her discovery of the portraits in an exhibition in Omaha. She had supposed them safe in a storage warehouse vault in that city.

The value of the portraits is said by Mrs. Judson to be $15,000.

'PROHIBITION BATTLE' YET TO BE WON

Federal Director Kramer Declares Fight Is Up to Local Authorities

By International News Service.

Washington, Nov. 25.—"The battle for prohibition is not won, and the fight must be continued," declared John F. Kramer, federal prohibition commissioner today, addressing the Board of Temperance of the Methodist Episcopal Church here.

Kramer declared that his organization, established under the Volstead act would not be ready to do much for the enforcement of wartime prohibition and must rest with the old law enforcing machinery. The efforts to enforce the prohibition laws will be decentralized, Kramer said, and as far as possible the local authorities will be relied upon.

"The very first steps in the way of action will be with the inspectors of the various States," Kramer declared. "The line of demarcation is no longer between those who favor prohibition and those who do not," Kramer said, but from now on it is between those who "are in favor of obeying the law" and those "who will be ready and anxious to violate the law."

"The great mass of American citizens are lawabiding," continued the commissioner. "They may not at all times believe in a certain law, but so long as the law is upon the statute books they feel it should be obeyed.

"The matter of enforcing the law will be primarily in the hands of the local authorities. The local authorities ought to be jealous of this right. "The law-abiding people should stand solidly back of those officials who do their duty.

"The battle for prohibition is not won. It is still on. It is true we have secured advantageous ground positions of great strategic importance, but those must be held and more advantageous positions taken."

HYSTERICAL AS HER HUSBAND IS SENTENCED

Pretty Mrs. David Bayley, girl wife of a confessed burglar, created a sensation in the Somerville Court today when she became hysterical as her husband was being sentenced to the Concord Reformatory. Two policemen removed her to an anteroom, where she was placed under the care of a physician. Bayley had pleaded guilty in court Saturday to breaking and entering and larceny from the home of George C. Bakin at No. 9 Bartlett street. He was on parole from the Concord Reformatory.

HOKE SMITH PREDICTS TREATY RATIFICATION

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—Ratification of the peace treaty and the League of Nations covenant, with reservations, soon after the Senate meets, is predicted by Senator Hoke Smith, in a statement issued here.

Senator Smith declares it is possible to reach an agreement on the treaty and to obtain concessions modifying the Shantung and Monroe Doctrine reservations, but that it first is necessary for extremists on both sides to understand that concessions are absolutely essential.

"Corned Beef And," Without Beer, Is Fatal to Man

By International News Service.

New York, Nov. 25. — Corned beef and cabbage without his customary bottle of beer to aid in digesting it caused the death of Maitland Corson, a business man, it was stated today by Dr. John Reigleman, Bronx medical examiner. "For years," said Dr. Reigleman, "Corson dined on corned beef and cabbage and a bottle of beer. The small amount of alcohol in the beer aided digestion. Last night he ate his usual corned beef and cabbage, but could not digest it properly. He took milk for relief, and his death ensued."

The boy had run from the sidewalk to the street, it was said, and had started back to the sidewalk when hit by the auto. The boy's collar bone was broken and several ribs fractured. # ARMY STORES TO REMAIN OPEN AFTER DEC. 15

Mail Order Service Will Close Temporarily on Dec. 10, However

The army retail stores have a new lease of life. Colonel E. L. Glasgow announced today that because of the business done locally, and the fact that there is no additional overhead expense, the retail stores will not close on December 15, but will remain open subject to the decision of the zone supply officer.

The mail order service, however, will close on December 10, this being necessitated by the great rush of postal business due to the Christmas holidays. Business will be resumed later.

Yesterday the stores were crowded, soap being in great demand, and shoes and woolen underclothing coming second. The soap sells in cases of 60 cakes, each purchaser being limited to one case at $3.60.

Thirty employes have been discharged, and thirty more shifted to the base. Colonel H. B. Harry of the mail order service transferred twenty-two men from his department to the stores.

FRESH CLEW IN RANDOLPH BANK ROBBERY

Bandits in Sharon Just Before Raid, Is Belief of Store Keeper

The hunt for the four men who a week ago robbed the Randolph Savings Bank of $40,000 took on new life today, following discovery of a clew in the adjoining town of Sharon.

The proprietor of a Sharon fruit store reported to the police of that town that he believes the robbers were in his store a few minutes before the raid. He has furnished a graphic description of them, particularly of a cross-eyed man supposed to be the leader.

The police are confident that he will be able to identify this leader from among the photographs in the rogues' gallery at Boston police headquarters.

The four men seen in the Sharon store drove up in a large automobile corresponding to the description of the one in which the robbers later appeared in Randolph.

One of them did the talking, and after a series of unimportant inquiries asked the way to Randolph, and the way to get out.

The Sharon police have reported he clew to the detectives who have been at work on the case.

The Modern Way of Washing

Saves all the old-fashioned work—Saves your clothes

You just soak your clothes clean instead of the old rubbing and boiling

YOU know the old way of washing well enough. The cluttered, messy kitchen. The long standing over the steaming boiler. The rubbing, rubbing of your clothes on the washboard—rubbing that frayed the edges of collars and cuffs, and faded the color out in specially hard-rubbed spots.

Just soak your clothes clean! Soak them with the wonderful new form of soap for the family washing—Rinso, the new soap product, in fine granules.

Different from anything ever before produced

Rinso is different from anything you have ever used before.

There is no solid soap to stick to the fabric—there are no harsh cleansing agents in it. Your clothes soak as safely in Rinso suds as in water alone.

Its fine granules are so rich in cleansing value, they loosen every bit of dirt as the clothes are soaking.

Makes clothes last twice as long

You rinse the clothes in the morning, and all the loosened dirt is gone. Only a few badly soiled spots will need a light rubbing between your hands.

All the rubbing of cake soap on your clothes is saved, all the cruel rubbing on the washboard.

You need never boil your clothes, except occasionally, if you wish to sterilize. For Rinso cleans as perfectly in cold water as in hot!

Try it on the hardest things to wash

Give Rinso just one trial—a hard trial. Try it on kitchen aprons, that have so many hard-to-get-out things spilled on them. Try it on dish towels, that you think now you have to boil clean. Try it on your small boy's suits, with the dirt just ground in.

You will be amazed at the simplicity of it—at the ease—at the clothes so clean and white, without all the old-fashioned work.

You simply cannot believe how wonderful Rinso is until you have used it week after week, and seen how beautifully white your clothes keep. Until you have seen how much longer they wear, and keep their colors.

Start using Rinso this week

Begin with your very next week's washing to launder clothes the modern way.

See what a simple matter the weekly washing becomes when you follow the easy directions on the Rinso package.

Get Rinso from your grocer. One package will do your whole week's washing.—Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

SAYS MILLIONS ARE STARVING IN AUSTRIA

British Writer on Tour There Declares Population Is in Desperate Straits

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 25.—"Unless speedy assistance is given to Austria the day is near when the whole republic will dissolve in anarchy," writes Lucien Jones, the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Express, in a dispatch from the Austrian capital today. The telegram continues:

"Millions are starving or perishing from cold. If they are not assisted they may rise up in the determination to live and seize everything they can "lay hands on."

Francis Lindley, the British high commissioner, who has just completed a tour of Austria, was quoted by the Daily Express as saying "If food supplies are held up two days longer Austria will be without an ounce of foodstuffs. There is no coal and for weeks past the people have been tearing up park benches for fuel. All the wooden street signs have vanished.

"Not one new-born infant in a thousand tastes milk. Out of 100,000 children in Vienna between the ages of one and four, probably 85,000 are suffering from rickets or some other disease due to the lack of milk. The Austrians long ago were put on 'iron rations,' which doctors admitted were insufficient to maintain life.

"Now the people are unable even to obtain 'iron rations.' Some supplies are smuggled into the country, where they are sold at inflated prices. But thousands must certainly die this Winter from starvation unless there is relief at once. Great Britain must answer this question: 'Are we to look on, while Austria dissolves into anarchy and can we afford this for the sake of Europe?' Already Austrian political leaders are talking of a union with Germany, which is the only alternative, or death."

"ABDUCTION" CAR DRIVER'S CASE FILED IN ATTLEBORO

Attleboro, Nov. 25.—Joseph Catalani, alleged driver of the "abduction" automobile, which whisked 19-year-old Alice Delollcono away from Mansfield, November 13, was arraigned in the district court on a charge of operating an automobile without lights. All the principals in the case, including the girl herself, were in court as witnesses, but Catalani admitted his guilt and after a statement had been made to the court, the case was placed on file.

While operating a motorcycle in South street he was struck by an automobile, the driver of which, according to witnesses, failed to stop.

CHARLIE TAYLOR, the boy evangelist, who is conducting a campaign in Providence.

BOY EVANGELIST HAS PRAISE FOR HEARST PAPERS

Charlie Taylor Declares They Do "God's Work in Providing Cheer for Poor"

Providence, R. I., Nov. 25.—The Hearst papers are "doing God's work in providing Christmas cheer for poor families," according to Charlie guiding hand of Providence helped conducting a campaign in this city.

"Every helper will be rewarded," he continued in an interview today, "and their efforts are the best kind of salvation for the poor unfortunates. I hope all concerned will devote their thoughts in that direction and don't forget Jesus Christ who makes it possible for us to exercise such worthy charity."

The young evangelist, who is conducting revivals in different churches of this city, said that for the next three weeks he will hammer salvation into delinquents with such force that fragments will linger after his departure. He said in part:

"Salvation is needed here, and I am going to hammer it into the heads of those who only think of Jesus Christ when they are short of decent language. Now that the war is over the boys don't want to forget that the guiding hand of Providence helped them with their bullets. Christianity won't hinder a fellow from getting a living or leading an honest life so he will be a worthy citizen, but lack of Christianity keeps a fellow on the wrong road and makes him an undesirable citizen.

"They want the truth, that's all they need. If they know the conception of the word truth they will be guided. People forget to devote time to God in their mad rush through life, and they little realize that the day will come when property directed thoughts will guide them to the Kingdom of Heaven.

"It's my business to dislodge dormant thought in their head and start their think-box going for their benefit as well as for the benefit of the community. The fellow who vacates his mind and allows error thought to take possession is unfortunate and must wake up before Gabriel blows that trumpet of his."

CRIME DRIVE CAUSES SPLIT AT LAKEVILLE

Lakeville, Nov. 25.—Investigation of certain local resorts by the town's suppression of crime committee and the bills contracted by that body with private detectives has inaugurated a law and order split in the town into factions. The private detective company, with a woman at the head, sent in bills which staggered the crime society. Now Benno Muthow, chairman of the crime committee, has attached the property of Town Clerk Everett G. Harvey.

SOMERVILLE GIRL KILLED BY TRUCK

Prohibition Closes Poorfarm at Woburn

Prohibition has closed the farm hitherto run in connection with the Woburn City Almshouse.

This was announced by the Board of Health and Charities today, following the authorization for the sale of the implements and livestock used in the farm's activities.

The board announces that the farm has not only been operating at a loss, but that scarcity of inmates, due in part to prohibition, has made it a poor investment for the city.

The city almshouse will be conducted as usual, for there are still aged people whom the city must care for at the institution.

The board states that applicants to the place have decreased greatly.

The loss in the maintenance of the farm to date is set at $8,000.

CRISIS IN ITALY THREATENS THRONE

Socialists May Attack King; Duke d'Aosta Talked of for Succession

By International News Service.

Rome, Nov. 25.—A critical political situation has developed from threats of the newly elected Socialist members of the Chamber of Deputies to institute a maximalist policy of action. The ministerial council is meeting daily.

Some of the most pessimistic members suggest that King Victor Emmanuel abdicate in favor of the Duke d'Aosta. This is opposed by others on the ground it would not improve the situation.

Foreign Minister Tittoni has been urging the Cabinet to resign, but Premier Nitti opposes such a move, contending it would be treason to the King.

There will be 156 Radicals among the 556 members of the Chamber of Deputies when Parliament is convened and they are threatening to go to extreme lengths, even to attacking the King should he carry out the time honored custom of opening Parliament.

It is possible, however, that the king may develop a convenient attack of illness when Parliament opens, which would prevent him from being present.

Flushed with their success at the recent election, the radicals are taking advantage of the waning power of Premier Nitti to do everything possible to embarrass the government. The failure of the premier to secure President Wilson from his attitude on the Fiume question and the unsettled conditions on the Adriatic coast resulting from Gabriele d'Annunzio's occupation of Fiume have been utilized.

There are some moderates among the radical faction and they are doing their utmost to prevent the introduction of a maximalist policy for fear it will lead to Bolshevism.

HAVERHILL GIRL IS ATTACKED SECOND TIME

Haverhill, Nov. 25.—For the second time within a week Miss Leona Caswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leander N. Caswell, No. 2 Grove street, has been attacked almost at the door of her home, and presumably by the same person, whose identity is unknown to either the police or Miss Caswell. The first attack was made on Wednesday evening, when a man grabbed her by the throat. She beat him over the head with a pair of shoes and he escaped. When he grabbed her the second time she screamed and he fled. Officers remained in the section about two hours, but no trace of the man could be found.

CHINESE PRAISE TREATY ACTION OF SENATE

Japanese Press, on the Other Hand, Bitterly Assails Americans

Shanghai, China, Nov. 25—Prominent Chinese officials and Chinese newspapers united today in lauding the United States Senate for rejecting the peace treaty, which automatically carries with it refusal to recognize the grant of Shantung peninsula to Japan.

"It is reaffirmation of America's stand in behalf of justice and right for the weaker nations," declared Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first provisional president of the Chinese republic. "It is a reassertion of the aims and ideals for which the United States entered the war. But while China rejoices Japan grieves."

Many political and economic organizations have united in adopting resolutions of gratitude for "American's guardianship of China's sovereignty."

The China Press, a newspaper printed here in English in behalf of closer American and Chinese relations, in its comment said: "League of Nations or no League, Japan will no longer be permitted to pursue her intolerable course of military aggression she has followed in recent years against China."

The Shunpao, the oldest Chinese newspaper, calls the American Senate's action "A ray of hope for the Chinese people." Americans in the Far East are said to be upholding the action of the Senate, having long believed that China had been wronged at Paris.

On the other hand the Japanese press is bitterly criticizing the American Senate and the American people.

"America and Japan are face to face like two angry tigers," said the Japanese newspaper Osaka Mainichi in its comment.

SOCIALISTS OF GERMANY IN REVOLT PLOT

Majority and Independents Plan Merger of Interests and Governmental Upheaval

Berlin, Nov. 25.—Leaders of the majority and independent Socialists are secretly bargaining for terms to bring about a coalition, it was learned today.

The failure of the German general strike is said to have convinced the Independent leaders that they are no match for Ebert-Noske in their efforts at a counter revolution. Another strong element in the political situation is the reactionary wave, a symptom of which was the homage paid to Field Marshal von Hindenburg when he came here to testify before the War Guilt Commission of the National Assembly today. Socialist leaders are greatly disturbed over this reactionary movement.

The Independents have outlined a number of conditions and have agreed that the faction led by Philip Scheidemann shall have the leadership if the unification takes place. Following are the main conditions in the Independents' proposals:

1—Socialists shall not participate in the National Cabinet and the Socialist party now under control of Minister of Defence Noske.

2—Immediate demobilization of all troops now under control of Minister of Defence Noske.

4—Immediately socialization of all public utilities and industries that are ready for such a change.

5—Imposition of confiscatory tax upon the fortunes of war profiteers.

Ledebour and Daumig, communist leaders have been informed of the negotiations, but so far are non-committal as to whether they will join or maintain the split of the radicals.

Coming Events

MAJESTIC THEATRE — Arthur Hammerstein's latest antidote for the blues and the grouch, the brand new nerve-jolting musical comedy "Joan of Arkansaw," opens at the Majestic Theatre Monday evening, December 1. Oscar Hammerstein, second grandson of the famous impresario and nephew of the producer, wrote the book and lyrics, and Herbert P. Stothart provided the score, said to be the most remarkable ever written for a musical comedy.

SHUBERT THEATRE—"Good Morning, Judge," the merry musical version of Sir Arthur Wing Pinero's farce, "The Magistrate," begins its Boston engagement at the Shubert Theatre next Monday evening, with George Hassell heading the same cast which kept the piece on Broadway a whole season.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—One of the biggest events of the current season will take place Monday evening, December 1, when the Stewart present Miss Jane Cowl at the Park Square Theatre in "Smilin' Through," a new play by Allan Langdon Martin. In it Mr. Martin has afforded the popular star an acting role of exceptional charm and variety, blending that tender pathos which appeals to those who love her best in tearful mood with a whimsical humor, in which she is charming.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE—The advance sale of seats for "The Friend Indeed" opening Monday evening, December 1, has been so large that the management has decided to give the first matinee performance of the season on Wednesday afternoon, December 3. Miss Elsie Janis will be the second offering of the Great Authors' Producing Company at the Waldorf Theatre for one week only, beginning Monday, December 1.

'ANGEL FACE' AMUSING AND TUNEFUL

By FRED J. McISAAC
Dramatic Editor.

Not since Victor Herbert's "Only Girl" has that master of melody turned out so sparkling and entrancing a score as "Angel Face," which began an engagement at the Colonial Theatre last night. And it's a long time since so clever and amusing a libretto has been supplied to beautiful music.

Herbert, himself, conducted the performance, and blandly gave an encore after encore until the entertainment stretched on towards midnight. Few departed before the final curtain, however, because a really good time is not furnished with every theatre ticket.

A person named Jack Donahue, who hails from either Charleston or South Boston, would have walked off with the prize if there had been an applause contest last night. This man is the funniest dancer I ever saw. A stepper who can keep an audience screaming during full fifteen minutes of a solo dance, while he burlesques traffic cops, esthetic dancers, shimmyers and scene shifters, deserves a paragraph all to himself up near the top of the review. Here it is, Jack.

Then there is Adele Rowland, one of the most skillful singers in light opera, a true comedienne who can suggest volumes by wrinkling her nose or wiggling her fingers. Miss Rowland helped very much to make things pleasant. John Young, a plump comedian with a manner all his own, helped in the laugh manufacturing, and so did George Schiller, one of the best of the "before the war" comedians. You don't know whether I mean the world war, Revolutionary War or Civil War, but he has been with us a long time.

A very restful looking damsel who plays an important role and sings it well is indicated by a row of question marks. Mr. Lederer, the producer, in a footnote, invites suggestions for a stage name for the little girl, alleging she can't make up her mind.

If it were a case of "Name her and you can have her," I might enter the contest, but it's probably only a press agent's trick. But what about the score?

Certainly. It deals with a professor who thinks he has invented an elixir of life, a couple of gay young men who live in a studio and entertain a whole musical comedy chorus there, and the love affairs of about five couples. The lines are very bright and Robert Smith's lyrics are as ingenious as Herbert's melodies.

What a genius Herbert is! One of Miss Rowland's songs is a string of Herbert melodies from "The Serenade," written in the early nineties down to the present time. It is astonishing to realize how many exquisite tunes this man has written: melodies a Beethoven or a Mozart would have hailed with delight. And here he is, thirty years after "The Serenade," churning out tunes, as fairly as effervescent, as lasting as he ever wrote in his life. There are a couple of dance airs in "Angel Face" that are irresistible.

But, mark this well, lovers of syncopation, there is no ragtime, and I am glad of it.

WALDRON'S CASINO—Frank Finney is the comedian star of Waldron's "The Bostonians," at Waldron's Casino. As a writer of burlesque material he is always possessed of the happiest ideas. This year he has furnished "The Bostonians," with an excruciatingly funny burlesque called "From Here to Shanghai," and which has been described as "Musical Chop-Suey," in two acts and six scenes, with a prologue. Phil Ott, his co-worker is also seen in an amusing role.

LOEW'S GLOBE THEATRE — "Evangeline," Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's immortal poem, has been re-created into a wonderful motion picture which is filled with every bit of charm and sentiment that hovered about the exquisite poem. The characters are so true to Longfellow's version that could they have but lived to see it he would have declared it an exact reproduction of the nostalgic Acadian belle when he wrote this famous epic. It was unveiled for the first times in Boston yesterday at Loew's Globe Theatre, where it attracted a record-breaking crowd.

COLUMBIA THEATRE — Feature films galore have been secured for the holiday week at Loew's Columbia Theatre. Nine Reels of "Stolen Orders" and Sessue Hayakawa in "The Illustrious Prince" will be shown today, Tomorrow and Thanksgiving Day. William Fox's superproduction "Evangeline," adapted from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's immortal poem, will be shown in addition to Vicki Dana's latest, "Please Get Married."

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—Jack Pickford, taking the role of Wonderful Spivens in "In Wrong," which was shown to delighted audiences yesterday at Gordon's Olympia, has a most romantic love experience and a most depressing vocation as the boy who delivers groceries and eggs for the village grocer. An extraordinary good bill of vaudeville is headed by Mabel Haynes, "The Sunshine Girl," and her company, in exclusive songs, followed by the Sterling Trio, Arthur Whitelaw, and Mullaly, Howell and McCarthy.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA—Selwyn's tremendous success, "Fair and Warmer," was screened very successfully yesterday at the Scollay Square Gympia, with May Allison as the charming star. The Olympia News Weekly and a good comedy complete the picture program, followed by splendid vaudeville.

MODERN AND BEACON—What is undoubtedly the best bill ever shown at the Modern and Beacon Theatres is being shown at these popular houses this week and is drawing packed houses to see Elsie Ferguson in "Counterfeit," Bryant Washburn in "It Pays to Advertise," and, as an added attraction, Charlie Chaplin in a release of his great success, "The Fireman." News reels and travel pictures complete the program.

Plays That Remain

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Last night saw the beginning of the last week of the "Shubert Galeties of 1919," that mammoth maelstrom of merry maidens, music and mirth at the Majestic Theatre, and after Saturday Boston's chance to view this sonata of seraphic shimmiettes will have passed.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The last week of Messrs. Lee and J. J. Shubert's musical comedy attack on the glooms. "Oh, What a Girl!" began at the Shubert Theatre last evening. In the hands of a competent company of youthful and pleasing players this tuneful bit is fine entertainment for every one, from the busy housewife to the tired business man.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE — Alice Brady began the second week of her engagement in "Forever After" at the Plymouth Theatre last night.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE—Mr. Harris's charming comedy, "Dear Brutus," entered on its third week at the Hollis Street Theatre last night, when Mr. Gillette and his associates faced another large and appreciative audience.

TREMONT THEATRE—"Three Wise Fools" began the third week of its popular engagement at the Tremont Theatre last evening. It is a delightful comedy with finely drawn characterizations.

TREMONT TEMPLE—Mary Pickford in "The Hoodlum" began her fifth week at Tremont Temple last night with a capacity audience. This excellent play, with its wide variety of incident and character, offers the favorite of the screen the best chance she has yet had for real character acting.

PARK THEATRE — The second week of Cecil B. De Mille's photoplay production of Sir James M. Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," "Male and Female," began at the Park Theatre last evening. The splendid story, filled with love and heart interest, the rapidly shifting scenes and speedy action and the undeniable excellence of the production from every angle has won popularity for this offering.

WILBUR THEATRE — William Hodge is half-way through the second month of his engagement at the Wilbur Theatre in his latest and most successful comedy drama, "The Guest of Honor."

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—Final week of Bertha Kalich in "The Riddle: Woman." The farewell performance of this great actress will be given on next Saturday night.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE — Last night Al Jolson began the second and last week of his engagement in "Sinbad" at the Boston Opera House. The usual big audience was present.

Souvenir Doll Matinee

The kiddies will doubtless turn out in full force next Saturday at the performance of Alice Brady in "Forever After" at the Plymouth Theatre, for it will be a doll souvenir matinee, and 500 Moxie dolls, standing two feet high, will be given to 500 children (under sixteen) free of cost, attending that performance and occupying orchestra or first balcony seats.

KEITH FEATURE IS COMEDY REVIEW

Jimmy Hussey and his latest comedy review "Move On" just shimmied their way into the good wishes of audiences at Keith's yesterday. The sketch is full of bright lines, catchy songs and humorous incidents.

Hussey acts the part of a chief of police and judge. In the opening part of his sketch, he appears as a member of the New York force. After losing his job, he goes into business for himself. Then follows a series of delightful and humorous moments with Hussey starring with Jewish songs which he renders with remarkable skill.

Milt Collins made a big hit in "The Patriot." It is a clever take off on the history of the United States. Needless to say, of course, received particular attention.

Eddie Russell and Peggy Parker appeared in "A Will and a Way." It is a delightful little sketch with plenty of bright lines, fine dancing and some real comedy.

Tim and Kitty O'Meara, with Freddie Clinton assisting, gave an exhibition of old and new dancing. The old dances are picturesque and were executed with precision. As for their exhibition of modern jass dancing, it had a punch which put the act over big.

La France brothers gave a novel act in which they prove that the laws of balance are all wrong so far as they themselves are concerned at least. Jean Barrios offers some song impressions; Bailey and Cowan, with Estelle Davis, star in "The Little Production in One," a musical affair while Captain Gruber and Mlle. Adelina introduce an elephant, horse, pony and dog in a unique entertainment.

Then there were pictures of the Harvard-Yale game, which gave all a chance to cheer for the Crimson and Blue and a young man named Casey.

UPHAM'S CORNER STRAND — A genuine ovation greeted Geraldine Farrar yesterday in her appearance in "The World and Its Woman," at the Uphum's Corner Strand. Particular attention was manifested in the showing of her famous Husband, Lou Tellegen, for the first time on the same screen. Tom Moore also starred on the same bill in "Love and Lady Algy. A splendid program has been arranged for the Thanksgiving holiday and Friday and Saturday headed by Katherine McDonald in "The Thunderbolt."

ST. JAMES THEATRE — Pretty Constance Binney is the attraction at the St. James Theatre the first three days of this week in a very clean and entertaining photoplay. On the same bill Mack Sennett will present his late comedy, "His Last False Step."

"The Westerners" is enacted by such eminent screen artists as Roy Stewart, Mildred Manning, Robert McKim, Wilfred Lucas, Graham Pettie and Mary Jane Irving. The story is laid in the Black Hills in the days of the gold rush.

Girls gave a delightful number of harmony, laughter and music, including a combination of the latest dances. Bernard and Myers presented an exceptionally amusing farce, "The Cabby and the Fare." "Dangerous Dan McGrew" was royally welcomed by his many Boston friends and proved a big hit. Jerge and Hamilton presented an amusing skit, "Miss Summertime," which brought out many a laugh.

DOUBLE OPERA BILL AT THE ARLINGTON

An educated musical sense is not necessary for an appreciation of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" as presented this week at the Arlington Theater. The haunting melodies of these two brief works make an instant appeal to the most uninitiated taste.

Coming out of the theater last night one heard the lilting intermezzo and stirring prologue being hummed and whistled by the audience. Oh, jazz, where is thy victory? Give us more Cavalierias and Pagliacchi and we will forego less ragtime, was the thought of the reviewer.

Arthur Dunham got the full measure from the two scores. Practically every member of the double company appeared in one or the other of them.

It was in Pagliacci that Caruso made one of his greatest triumphs But Joseph Sheehan gave an artistic rendering of the role of Canio that will linger with Boston opera lovers. Ruth Kuerthas sang the difficult part of Nedda. Others of the company acquitted themselves creditably.

The idyllic setting of "Cavalleria Rusticana" carried one away from thoughts of social unrest to the simple life of an Italian village. Hazel Eden made a charming Santuzza and Leonard Sanford sang the Turiddu part. Elaine de Sellen was the Lucia. A capable cast was in support.

This is the third week of the company at the Arlington.

LOEW'S ORPHEUM THEATRE—An ideal program has been arranged for the holiday week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, including a long list of vaudeville favorites and two of the biggest releases of the season in the cinema world. William O'Clare and

BOB FISHER TAKES HIGH RANK AMONG 1919 COACHES

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Listed high among the successful football coaches of 1919 is the name of Bob Fisher of Harvard.

From a very ordinary collection of candidates, only one of whom was regarded as a star, he created a team that, in an entire season, did not learn the taste of defeat.

It was not a great team—only a miracle could have made it so—and such of its time was devoted to playing still weaker aggregations, but when it met its crucial tests, it developed the goods, and none could ask more of it.

Only one recognized star—and he a player whose ability was limited—did but a very few football men of varsity experience, or exceptional football class, were included in the number who took the field for the initial practice, and, as the season progressed, no hitherto unknown stars would themselves.

FISHER'S HANDICAPS.

There have been denials and criticisms galore of a new story dealing with alleged interference on the part of certain experienced Harvard players toward their new mentor. Percy Haughton, in his many years as Harvard's coach, had developed a coaching position as a football dictator of rare ability, while Fisher, because of no such accommodation in his experience, brought a [illegible] record to Cambridge, and [illegible] and new system. [illegible] coach, the sort of man who had served under his successful predecessor who, it was to be in the natural development of the world.

Added to this problem was that of openly scouting Harvard opponents with no Reggie Brown in a [illegible] of scouts.

Those intimately acquainted with the workings of the Brighton [illegible] realized what the Harvard coach was facing. Reggie Brown knew not only the personnel of the Crimson's 1919 eleven, but its every movement, but when the football season had ended its fine figure that could add the figures for Fisher's team, are [illegible] Won, 8 Tied, 1 Lost, 0."

While there has been quite a general sounding of Coach Sharpe of Yale in the newspapers of New York and Boston, an entirely opposite attitude prevails at New Haven.

The angles from which some of the sharps view his work with the Harvard coaches in some cases very angular, perhaps the most amazing being that which deals with the amount of football Sharpe taught his men—several holding that Yale lacked anything like coaching in pushing attack and was lamentably weak in its passing game.

Few who witnessed either the Yale-Princeton or Yale-Harvard game will agree with the contention Yale lacked plays or power. Yale's march to Harvard's 5-yard line proved by far the best offensive exhibition of the game, and one or two very similar marches against Princeton gave additional proof that the Yale team, had it possessed a leader of any football intelligence, could have scored touchdowns at least twice in both of its big games.

HAD ENOUGH PLAYS.

In the opinion of any number of close students of football Sharpe gave to Yale enough plays and sufficient punch to win all its games, and the fact Yale failed to employ its power effectively is entirely due to the poor quarterback and the Yale captain.

The latter has been heralded as a great football player and a man of great football intelligence, but he permitted his quarterback to employ impossible plays in both the Yale-Princeton and Yale-Harvard games, when, as captain of the team, he had sufficient authority to order a change in the signals. It was Captain Callahan who put the ball in play on every signal, and it would have been a simple matter for him to refrain from passing the ball until a proper play for the occasion had been called for. Callahan is equally at fault with Kempton, or perhaps more so, for Yale's two great failures

SELECTION OF QUARTER POOR.

The one thing for which Sharpe may be deserving criticism is the selection of Kempton as quarterback in the Harvard game, after the latter's miserable failure against Princeton. To the minds of many LaRoche should have been the man to lead the team, despite his showing in the Boston College game, for while Kempton may shine in practice and preliminary contests, it is obvious he is not a big game performer, whereas LaRoche, in 1918, demonstrated beyond a doubt that he could handle the Kile effectively in counting contests.

From an ordinary substitute during the bulk of the 1918 season, LaRoche, by reason of Smith's illness, won Yale's sole quarterback entrance for Yale's game with Princeton and Harvard, and on both occasions he came through with colors flying.

heralded ability, never [illegible] been a backfield man of All-America calibre. He is a reasonably good but rather uncertain drop-kicker, as was indicated in the Yale game, when he did [illegible] produced a score and his 15-yard try for goal from the mark, and his line-plunging ability falls far below that of Braden and [illegible] before that of Hillo of Colgate.

Murray, who gained the captaincy, and of whom much was expected, failed to show the form he displayed in 1918, and to Fisher came the delicate task of removing the team's captain early in the important games and putting in his place Felton, who seemed able to get more out of the team.

DEVELOPED GOOD TEAM.

The remainder of the backfield candidates who reported to the Harvard coach, except for Church, were of ordinary quality, far below the [illegible] Haughton had to favor, and the collection of linemen, after the [illegible] of Hindle and Brickley, [illegible] stricken from the list, was [illegible] more impressive.

Yet from this array Fisher and his assistants developed a team whose worst showing was that of [illegible] Princeton had secured a seven point lead.

Harvard's week early season schedule, and the fact that in the Yale game the Elis team presented Harvard with [illegible] opportunities [illegible] but originally would not come to [illegible] tend to the work of the [illegible] from [illegible] movement but when the footing [illegible] had ended its fine figure that could add the figures for Fisher's team, are [illegible] Won, 8 Tied, 1 Lost, 0."

While there has been quite a general sounding of Coach Sharpe of Yale in the newspapers of New York and Boston, an entirely opposite attitude prevails at New Haven.

The angles from which some of the sharps view his work with the Harvard coaches in some cases very angular, perhaps the most amazing being that which deals with the amount of football Sharpe taught his men—several holding that Yale lacked anything like coaching in pushing attack and was lamentably weak in its passing game.

Tickets on 30-Yard Line for Georgetown-B. C. Game On Sale

The tickets for the Boston College-Georgetown football game at Newton Field, Saturday afternoon, went on public sale at Wright & Ditson's yesterday morning and judging from the opening day's sale a big crowd will be on hand when the two rivals fight out the result collegiate championship.

While a team of Boston College and of Georgetown, have had scarcely a season records for the past few years, and assortment of tickets available for the general public is most surprising on well as pleasing to the football fans.

In the ticket sale at Wright & Ditson's are a number of choice seats, like a few near the center of the field on the 40 yard line, while some great seats on a side remain to be [illegible] the demand is brisk and the assortment will not long remain unbroken. Our allies, who ias der Turk needs der leader, und as I said before, if you vas listening mitt red ears, der Pied Piper makes der fine leader mitt der bunch of rats.

This book writing foolishment is der new business mitt me. Der Berlin people pay me ten pfennigs for der word. That is cheap compared to vhat der German people iss now paying for each von of der Billhelm's words. I am der plain soldier, first mitt last. In der recent shinnykafuss, I vas last

To der finish, my brave army, led by myseliuf, fought like der maniacs. Dey took der example from der leader. Dey defended 'emselluis against der orphan mitt der vidow und ony der underhand propumganda uff starvation defeats us.

At dis time, vhen der German army vas leading der Yanks on like der rabbit leads der bulldog, der bourgeoisie looks mitt himself in der stomach und discovers dot he can button der vest on hiss backbone. Der full stomach makes der empty purse, but der empty purse don't make der soul. Der soul of hindle und Brickley und [illegible] vork both vays. Der chin aint pinned on right. He has der sloping bow like der Lipton boat vott don't vin any uff per yacht races. Der resemblance iss remarkable mitt der vinning. I could never tell iff he iss vearing his tonsils low or his Adam's Applum high.

How could a general keep der mind on der vork when he iss thinking on der chin? Der Prince has no vhakers. Like der Rocky Mountain goat, only a vild hair could get der footiad on dot chin. But he insists on butting in mutt der talkfuss. He don't know dot der var is a different business mitt diffing der laffellvre to der opera singer.

Dey use der oil can to crank der engine and throw der monkey vrench in der works for good measure. I haff der hands tied like der Houdini. The only difference is dot I aint Houdini.

As I said before in der next article, der Kaiser thinks der next objectiff is Holland vhere der shoemaker iss a carpenter and der trousers make der inhabitant look like der parachute jumper. Dot's all right for der Royal Kaisers mitt Kings und Princes, but a general hass his folks to think about.

$50,000 PURSE FOR DEMPSEY AND MADDEN

Chicago, Nov. 25—Detroit is bidding for a match between Hartley Madden, New York heavyweight, and Champion Jack Dempsey, and promoters there have offered a purse of $50,000 for the bout, according to an announcement made here by Barney Lichtenstein, manager of Madden. Madden has accepted.

The Magoun Square Civic Association of Somerville will give an invitation "smoker" to their friends at the K. of C. Hall this evening. During the evening they will be entertained by Bobby Josepha, Charley Bergin, Frank Tillo, Johnny Mooney, Johnny Emery, Louis Leonard, Al Roche, Joe Farren and a long list of other stars in the boxing line, while Gus Daly, "Chick" Davoe, Phil Rosso and other stars will entertain in songs and dances. A couple of wrestling bouts between well known mat men are also scheduled.

Cincinnati, Nov. 25—The Cincinnati [illegible]

A contract with representatives of that place has been closed. The champions will spend a week in Havana, Cuba, before the training season.

LATIN TO PLAY TIPLITZ MEETS ENGLISH FOR CITY TITLE WORTHY FOE IN BRITT

Boston Latin School and English High will meet Thanksgiving Day in their annual game at Fenway Park. As each team has gone through the season without losing any of their league games the championship of the city will be at stake. This game is always one of the classics of the school season and as both of the teams have the habit of playing their best game of the year when they are lined up against each other it is never safe to make either a favorite.

On comparison of scores English High has a little the better of the argument. Latin beat Commerce, 6 to 0, while English scored two touchdowns against the Fenway school. In the Dorchester game Latin won by a narrow margin, getting only one touchdown, while the English team won, 20 to 0. Mechanic Arts is the only team that Latin scored more points against than English. Neither team has had its goal line crossed in a City League game.

LOFTUS SIGNS TO RIDE FOR RIDDLE STABLE

New York, Nov. 25.—Johnny Loftus America's premier jockey, is one of the leading winters to this fair city. Johnny spiked the rumors of his retirement by announcing he had signed to ride for the Glen Riddle Farm stable next season, with [illegible] and call going to M. L. Schwartz.

Loftus will stay here for a few days and then strike for the city of Chicago, which he honored by being born there. He will enjoy a well earned rest and when the snow begins to fade will hasten to the Glen Riddle Farm. Down there he will begin to break in the yearlings quartered there. Possibly another Man o' War may be developed.

GOULLET PAIRED WITH MADDEN IN BIG RACE

New York, Nov. 25.—Alfred Goullet, the Australian bicycle rider, will team up with Eddie Madden in the race which starts at midnight next Sunday. Goullet has been holding Madden in reserve and when Johnny Ray Latson refused to ride with him the six-day star brought Madden into the six-day office to sign a contract to ride.

The $1,000 match race in which Goullet, Ertsen and Arthur Spencer will be the starters will be the feature Saturday night.

GARDNER NEW CAPTAIN OF RUTGERS EEVEN

New York, Nov. 25.—Turk Gardner, star halfback, has been elected captain of the Rutgers football eleven for next season. Gardner has played three years on the Scarlet and has been one of the best ground gainers. He has been a little off form this year, owing to injuries.

Owing to his great defensive work, Gardner was shifted to tackle in the early part of the present season, although he had played in the back field previously. He was used at end for a time also but for the last three games was put back in his old position.

BOB McBRIDE JOINS DARTMOUTH ATHLETES

Denver, Nov. 25.—Bob McBride, Denver war hero and one of the greatest athletes Colorado ever produced, has left for Dartmouth, where he will complete his college course.

McBride was severely crippled in action over seas and it was thought he would never be able to wear track shoes again. However, upon returning home, under expert medical care, he has improved rapidly, and by Spring may be once more on the cinder path. McBride attended a Denver High School and Colorado College at Colorado Springs.

Play Scoreless Tie

New York, Nov. 25.—Johnny Loftus, America's premier jockey, is one of the leading winters to this fair city. Johnny spiked the rumors of his retirement by announcing he had signed to ride for the Glen Riddle Farm stable next season, with [illegible] and call going to M. L. Schwartz.

Loftus will stay here for a few days and then strike for the city of Chicago, which he honored by being born there. He will enjoy a well earned rest and when the snow begins to fade will hasten to the Glen Riddle Farm. Down there he will begin to break in the yearlings quartered there. Possibly another Man o' War may be developed.

GOULLET PAIRED WITH MADDEN IN BIG RACE

New York, Nov. 25.—Alfred Goullet, the Australian bicycle rider, will team up with Eddie Madden in the race which starts at midnight next Sunday. Goullet has been holding Madden in reserve and when Johnny Ray Latson refused to ride with him the six-day star brought Madden into the six-day office to sign a contract to ride.

The $1,000 match race in which Goullet, Ertsen and Arthur Spencer will be the starters will be the feature Saturday night.

GARDNER NEW CAPTAIN OF RUTGERS EEVEN

New York, Nov. 25.—Turk Gardner, star halfback, has been elected captain of the Rutgers football eleven for next season. Gardner has played three years on the Scarlet and has been one of the best ground gainers. He has been a little off form this year, owing to injuries.

Owing to his great defensive work, Gardner was shifted to tackle in the early part of the present season, although he had played in the back field previously. He was used at end for a time also but for the last three games was put back in his old position.

BOB McBRIDE JOINS DARTMOUTH ATHLETES

Denver, Nov. 25.—Bob McBride, Denver war hero and one of the greatest athletes Colorado ever produced, has left for Dartmouth, where he will complete his college course.

McBride was severely crippled in action over seas and it was thought he would never be able to wear track shoes again. However, upon returning home, under expert medical care, he has improved rapidly, and by Spring may be once more on the cinder path. McBride attended a Denver High School and Colorado College at Colorado Springs.

This Day in Our History—Nov. 25, 1919

THIS is the anniversary of the evacuation by the British, in 1783, of New York. The treaty of peace had already been signed, and the patriots, assured of independence, watched the departure of the hated red coats with the knowledge that they were losing a great country from the domineering clutch of Great Britain.

Watch the "King of Suns" Rise

ABOUT half past 9 o'clock now, you may see the brightest of the stars, Sirius, rising in the east and flashing near the horizon. Although called "king of suns," Sirius owes his distinction to his relative nearness. He is only thirty or forty times greater than our sun, whereas stars like Rigel and Canopus are thousands of times greater.

AND so Effie swept owned her rightful [illegible] as far as he was concerned it only served a purpose when it hung between two virgin arms. And the man made an extravagant gesture of entire agreement with his expressive hands.

The day was a good one. The [illegible] and Helena was surprised and kept on the qui-vive by his mixture of an intimate knowledge of history and the typical wit with which he peppered it before her. They rolled from place to place in the large motor car, crossing the river at Kew to the old cafe whose greedy little eyes gazed continually at the cold Odeon with twinkling affection and gamin respect.

During these hours Harwich assumed a sort of boyishness. He seemed to be endeavoring to take on the carefree and manner of speech of the average healthy high-spirited undergraduate. It succeeded so well that Helena almost forgot that she had thought of him as the black man. She was not old enough nor experienced enough to see that he was living down to what he considered to be her level of intelligence. She did not find herself liking him any better. She merely felt less uncomfortable, less observed, less conscious that she was under the microscope of a confirmed sensualist. And she became natural at ease, as I was able to enjoy and [illegible] the farce.

With the cat-like quality which belongs to every average woman she was glad at last to return to the hotel and be among her things again, with the friendly Effie, whose deference came in like a waft of balm. Already the bedroom was home. It was, at any rate, hers, wherein she could be alone with the white girl, whose country butter and soap-shiny face were so essentially English and in keeping with her ideas and upbringing. She had long ago forgotten the existence of the black pearl, to possess which many women would have bartered their bodies without a tremor.

Like a Dream

Tea was sent up to her—English tea in the French manner. And she and Effie sat in the window together, knee to knee watching, commenting and laughing. It was delightful to see the life of a foreign city and listen to the [illegible] story of one who might easily have been one of the vicar's Sunday school girls. The whole thing still seemed like a curious dream, and she herself like the girl in a story. She thanked God fervently from time to time that, at any rate, she had been spared so far, and she refused to allow herself to think of the Duke's final sentence before he had left her room the night before.

There was, too, all the excitement of wearing another new frock for dinner and wondering whether she couldn't devise a new way of doing her hair.

The Duke took her to the opera after dinner, and the sight of the large building, whose tiers were closely filled with people, glistening and scintillating when the lights were up, was as new and wonderful as the soul-stirring music of "La Boheme." But oddly enough, Effie's [illegible] fascination, uttered in a tone of [illegible] sincerity, when she almost ready to join the Duke in the sitting-room, reminded to fit in the mood with startling [illegible] time. "My! you are lucky." Lucky!

When the woman of whom she thought, to whom she wrote, who had waited in step with her through her hopes, hardly years could now [illegible] but a friend! Suppose she met him one day again, or any [illegible] time—now. She had no shadow of doubt but that he loved and was waiting for her. She had never had any doubt about that. She knew him. She had the [illegible] in detail. [illegible] were as familiar to her as [illegible] and she had [illegible] together. She had [illegible] to him to [illegible] those times when there was [illegible] on our soul—pain, if she had been hurt by a hasty unjust word, or great joy brought by an [illegible] beautiful sunset. # When a Girl Marries

By Ann Lisle

(1919, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THIS was the night of our dinner and theatre party and I had forgotten all about it.

Of course I might still text to the Waldrafs, dress and join the party at the theatre. But I was in no mood for that. Besides, it was possible that Jim and Virginia had asked some one else to fill my place. My coming to the theatre might be decidedly awkward. Best from every point of view to stay in the Waldrafs'.

Arrived at Rooms

So once I arrived at my rooms, I flung off my clothes, had a hot bath and then—perhaps it was a negligee—carried out a soft down puff to the living room and arranged myself on the big divan there. I'd rest until Jim returned.

For I'm excited to sleep, I lay on the couch smiling to the events of the day. The outstanding thing to my way of thinking was this: Terry had relentlessly kept weeping him in the dark about Betty's probable fate, but at her quest on he had plunged in with the assurance that he'd known from the first. I felt it was right for him to do that. He felt equally satisfied about the righteousness of what I had done.

I couldn't answer that. And failing to answer it, I couldn't find peace of mind. Deep down in my soul was [illegible] for Jim to help me—for Jim to stand by as the rightness of what I had done.

In the midst of my squirrel-in-a-cage reflections I heard the key in the door. I leaped from the couch to greet him. He came in with an air of great alertness, humming.

"What the dickens are you doing here?" he asked.

"Why, Jim, aren't you glad to see me? You sound almost as if you wish I'd stayed down with Betty and Terry," I cried.

Jim gave his head the quick backward jerk that has been growing on him recently.

"Well, why didn't you?" he muttered. "What do you think you mean shutting yourself up here in the room while your husband is entertaining a party of friends? I don't get you, Anne. First you ask Valerie—Cody to a party. Then you welch on it with some sob sister stuff about the friend who needs you. And now from the looks of things—it was all cooked up to cut the party. Why?"

In the midst of being hurt at the injustice of the way Jim was interpreting things I noticed how [illegible] started to call Mrs. Cushy "Valerie" and then tacked on her last name. There was a why for that, too. But I knew better than to ask it just then.

Of course, some husbands would be glad to see their wives; they'd not care how the return ahead of time came about," was all I said.

Vell—I'm not some husbands. I was thinking human being. Were Betty and Terry sore on you for that you'd done?"

"No——" I began, but Jim cut in.

"How do you think it will strike the fellows when they find out about your performance? I won't stand for this." Jim's voice became sharper. "I told you once that my wife had to be my partner."

I came back: "I said quietly, remember Johnny Norreys came [illegible] afternoon."

"Anthony Norreys!" broke in Jim. "Then Terry and Betty were sore at you for the way you shut your mouth on what they'd a right to know, and tried to run things. And they sent for Norreys—practically turned you out."

[illegible] ruling for Tony was my idea." —

"Your idea? Why? And why [illegible] you'd put it through and [illegible] your nerve and cut and run? [illegible] Anne, and explain your darn fool [illegible] decided Jim.

"It [illegible] me. I cried. If you choose to be brutal I am [illegible] to be silent."

"Oh, you can! By Jove, [illegible] can! My sweet hell [illegible] Jim's voice. "Are you [illegible] that we've got to the parting of the ways, was it possible that such an idea had been in the back of [illegible]?

"Don't look as if I'd knifed you in the back," said Jim, [illegible] over as if the question in his eyes had drawn him, and patting [illegible] awkwardly.

"Try, instead, for once to see things from my point of view. What kind of a partner—and pal do you think clothes [illegible] this way you did with a big deal on and won't even say what's up.

"I'll tell you," I replied. But without realizing what I was doing I shook off Jim's hand on my shoulder.

This was the second time I had refused Jim's caress. And his grave face made me realize that he, too, realized it.

"When I explained to Terry that I'd known all along, he understood my not telling him. So that was all right. Then so Betty'd see how game some one else was in a far worse than hers could be at the worst—I thought of asking Tony down."

"I don't get that," said Jim curtly.

"I thought you wouldn't. That was why I couldn't stay after he came."

"And of course you let them all see what a jealous tyrant I am?" queried Jim.

"I told Terry that you'd never [illegible] Tony since we 'manufactured' that job at the office, and I left [illegible] at the station so no one else [illegible] I could [illegible] to stay. [illegible] Tony and—how much worse things were for him. And partly to save him, she's making an effort to be [illegible] grave and cheery, so her one chance, is a good [illegible]

She Was Tired

"All [illegible] That's [illegible] But [illegible] you got back to town will you tell me why you couldn't be as considerate of your husband as you pretend to be in coming back?"

"It was ten o'clock, Jim. I was tired. And I thought you might have asked some one in my place."

Broiled Chicken a la Delisle

Split a chicken through the back, after having drawn, singed and [illegible] it well. Trim it nicely, remove the [illegible] and sear on with salt and pepper. Dip it melted butter, then roll in bread crumbs, and broil over a slow fire. Serve with a garnishing prepared as follows. Peel four medium-sized tomatoes, cut them in four, press out the seeds and fry in butter with finely shredded green peppers and [illegible] a little [illegible] butter. Let simmer until thoroughly done. Prepare a border of rice (Recipe No. 12), lay the tomatoes in the center, [illegible] chicken on top. Trim the drumsticks with paper frills and serve very hot.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in holding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination while it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Love and Revenge Centre About an Agreeable English Aristocrat of the Old School

THE gardener once more doffed his cap and received the intelligence with gratified interest. Over the top of the hill, a small governess cart, drawn by a fat pony, came into sight, and Letitia waved her hand to the girl who was driving.

"It's Sylvia, Lajcey," she murmured. "Now how on earth can that child still be at Broomleys, if Mr Thain is really here?"

Sylvia explained the matter as she drove into the great sabled, Letitia walking on one side of her and the Marquis on the other.

"Of course we've left Broomleys," she told them, "but we are staying with the Mellancourts for three or four days. They asked us at the last moment. And then your letter came, Letitia—just in time, I'm simply crazy to come and stay with you. Let's see, you lucky girl! You are going to be here all the time! I am simply foolish about him!"

"About whom?" Letitia asked indifferently.

"Why, Mr. David Thain, of course! He's the nicest thing I've ever talked to. He lunched with us on Thursday—but of course you're in love with him, too, as there'll be no [illegible] left!"

Laughed Scornfully

Letitia's laugh was half amused, half scornful.

"If you are in earnest, Sylvia," she said, "you're mostly very likely. I can assure you that you need fear no rival. Mr Thain does not appeal to me."

"We've seen much [illegible] Mr Thain," the Marquis observed, suddenly joining both of his companions in the conversation, "and I am in entire agreement with [illegible] opinion. He is [illegible] a most [illegible] young man, but [illegible] are [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

COPPER ISSUES ARE WEAKEST CLASS

Motors, Oils and Rubbers at Highest in the Second Hour

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, motors, oils and rubbers being at their highest at the end of the morning. General Motors was the feature, showing a gain of more than twenty points. Coppers sold off in the second hour, being the only weak group. These issues were affected by sales of metal for 1920 delivery at lowered prices all around. Producers, after firmly maintaining prices for months, are now engaging in active competition for any business that can be obtained. Anaconda and Inspiration declined more than a point. Motors advanced the most as a class, Republic Motors being up six points by noon.

Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rates ruled firmer. Stock transactions for the morning totaled about half a million shares.

STRONG AND QUIET OPENING.

The market was strong and quiet at the beginning, first prices being from fractions to three points higher and with motors in the lead. Steels were strong at the start, while equipments, oils and industrials were generally advanced. Union Pacific was the only rail to show much strength, but business in this issue was limited. Atlantic Gulf lead shipping shares. Endicott Johnson was a strong specialty. It is rumored that its shareholders are to benefit soon by some kind of a cash distribution. The trend was upward and prices advanced for half an hour or more before realizing caused a set back for some issues. But there was no reaction and gains were held as a rule.

GENERAL MOTORS STRONG.

Utilized Motor advanced the most during the first hour. It was showing thirteen points gains at 350 before the first hour was over. Studebaker and White maintained near three, while Pierce Arrow was up four and Stutz five.

Oils, rubbers and Republic were the strongest steels, advancing about three points each before 11 o'clock. Industrials gained two. American Woolen was another strong issue. Among the specialties Texas Co. was a point somewhat were Texas Co. and Worthington Pump. It was a traders' market at the morning.

As to the situation it is claimed by one faction that the bottom is and by the opposition that another bear drive is coming. It is a fact, however, that the public interest is very large, that investment buying by big and little capitalists is in progress and that equipments is the main are of a professional character.

Trading was of moderate volume and of less breadth than has been the rule of late, the bulk of business confined to motors and steels. The opinion obtains that the lull will last for some time.

Lead in Demand

Unlike copper, lead is in strong domestic demand, while European requirements cannot be satisfied for many months probably. Stocks of the metal are decreasing in this country and abroad. But production is likely to increase, as labor troubles in lead-mining districts have been adjusted.

Wall Street Briefs

To finance a combination of the selling and manufacturing departments, the Selden Truck Sales Company increased its capital stock by $50,000 to $100,000 $ per cent. first preferred, $50,000 second preferred and 20,000 shares of no par value common stock. The proceeds of the sale of first preferred stock, it is stated by Co. was devoted to provide part of the funds to purchase the Gerlach Motor Vehicle Company and the whole business is now under one management. Trucks made by the Selden Truck Corporation. The deal by which has been arranged with the Selden motor trucks is indicated by an increase in sales from $1,142,501 in 1918 to $2,500,000 in 1919.

Lybrand & Ernst, certified public accountants, announce the opening of an office at No. 502 Chamber of Commerce building, Cleveland. This firm now has offices in nineteen cities of the United States.

The balance for common stock of the Worthington Pump and Machinery Corp. after taxes for the first six months of this year, was equal to $20 a share, it is estimated that it will be double that amount for the whole of 1919.

President Woodin of the American Car and Foundry Company said that the $10,000,000 from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 to supply present domestic and foreign requirements. Without credit extension this country is not likely to get much of the business.

HOME MARKETS SHOW EARLY STRENGTH

Auto Accessories the Exchange Feature; Curb Trading Is Active

After a firm start the Boston market held up well during the morning, although there were enough declines to make the list look uneven. Gains predominated, however. Strength of automobile stocks in New York had its reflex here in gains by the shares of corporations manufacturing car accessories. They were the most active class. Other issues often on the tape showed Endicott Manufacturing and Eastern Steamship. The former had an irregular movement, but the latter started strong.

Largest gains during the forenoon were made by Parish and Bingham, Gray & Davis, Mullins Body, Eastern Steamship common and preferred and United Fruit. They advanced from one to five points. Eastern Steamship preferred showed the most and the common issue of the company sold at its year's highest. For October and November the company's surplus increased $82,950, while for ten months the gain was $272,106. Fractional gains were made by Walworth, which was more active than usual, Boot and Van Percoort, Davis Hill, National Lead Pref., Allied Shoe and U. S. Smelting.

Among weakest stocks were Copper Range, East Butte, Old Dominion, Ventura, Amoskeag and Bighorn. They were from fractions to a point lower. Coppers were weak and dull as usual. Metal sales for next year delivery have been made at 19 cents a pound.

On the Boston Curb prices advanced and the market was active as well as strong. Arizona Silver was a first hour feature. It advanced. Dolge stocks were higher, gains being made by Clinton Wright, Gadsden, Hecla and Ohio Body. Mutual Divide was unchanged at mid-morning. Imperial sold a little higher. Trading was light today on the Curb in Silver Reef Mining. It opened at 40 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Should Be Proudest Moment of Senator Lodge's Life

The Boston Post, whose support of the League of Nations has always been a matter of wonder to the American, prints at the head of one of its editorial columns in big black type, the report of a colloquy between Senator Swanson and Senator Lodge on the day when the League of Nations failed of ratification by the Senate. The report has it that Senator Swanson, just befor ethe treaty went down to take the count for the last time, went over to Senator Lodge's desk and said to him, "Cannot something be done to save the treaty, for God's sake?" To which the Senator replied, "The door is closed now."

The Post quotes this alleged episode without comment, but under circumstances which make it apparent that the Post believed that there is something obviously terrible in Senator Lodge's position. There is certainly nothing obviously wrong about it, whatever there may be obvious about it. The Senate had just voted down all amendments to the league, in order that the work of the Peace Conference might not be nullified and another long-winded peace session be required again. It then had inserted a reservation for the purpose of Americanizing the treaty and of reducing the risk which America takes by entering the league at all, so far as that risk can be reduced by reservations, which simply make it clear what America's duty and obligations shall be. In no case do the reservations attempt to do anything more than to make certain by clearer language that the results which come to the United States by entering the league shall be such as the President and those in favor of the league declare are really set forth in the league either expressly or impliedly. Those who say with President Wilson that a ratification of the league with these reservations would not be a ratification, but a nullification, simply expose the fact that the league without these reservations really means what its opponents say it means, and what its advocates have denied it meant.

This is, or ought to be, the proudest moment in Senator Lodge's life. It is not that he has conducted the opposition to the league with great skill and persistence. It was not that his mind sensed the danger of the league for the American people. These things we expected of him.

It is that he withstood the pressure of old friendships, old social and financial alliances, such as those associations so well know how to apply. Senator Lodge must have found himself many times feeling rather lonely in this great contest. While it is true that his Republican colleagues in the Senate mostly stood by him, yet his old Republican associates at home were against him.

The American has said before that it is a great pity that this fight could not have occurred when Senator Lodge was a younger man. It would have given him a point of view which would have made him a very useful citizen and public servant in domestic as well as foreign affairs.

Remedy for Manufacturing Decline in Bay State

Mr. Warner, Speaker of our Massachusetts House of Representatives, called attention of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, at a dinner last week, to the relative decline of Massachusetts' industries. There was a tone of hopeless lament in his warning. He spoke of the constant struggle of the South to take away our cotton manufacturing industry, and of the rise of Missouri in the boot and shoe industry.

What Mr. Warner said is true. There is a relative decline of Massachusetts industry compared with industry in other sections of the country. While many men have pointed out this fact, few have applied themselves to any constructive remedy. Generally this lament is set up in the Legislature to prevent a burden being placed upon our Massachusetts' manufacturing tending to civilize them more. The cause always given for the relative rise of other communities in industry has been that labor costs so much more in Massachusetts, and the only remedy suggested has been keeping conditions in Massachusetts down to the evel of conditions in other States. It has not occurred to our business men and statesmen that Massachusetts industry could be preserved by helping to raise the labor to the level of industrial conditions of other competing States. The Southern competition in cotton manufacturing would not be dangerous to Massachusetts if cotton were manufactured in the South under the same conditions that it is manufactured in Massachusetts. It is a burden upon Massachusetts in her competition with other American communities to be obliged to assume a greater expense of manufacturing than is borne by competitors in other States.

A standing commission which had for its object an investigation and correction of these differences in manufacturing costs, which involved a leveling up rather than a leveling down of conditions, would be a great experiment for Massachusetts to make. It would probably be bread cast upon the waters.

FOR THAT TIRED FEELING

Many nights you return to your home so fatigued that you wonder if you are losing strength permanently.

Then mentally you see yourself in an easier job and one less remunerative because you were unable to hold the present position; and the more you think the more alarmed you become and the more sure you are that you just cannot hold out.

Get rid of such thoughts.

Persons have died of fright, but that was when something shocking took them unawares.

Then you have an opportunity to counteract that weariness.

It is not the physical exhaustion which is doing you so much harm as the worry over it.

Instead, why do you not take some means to have your case diagnosed by one who can understand just what muscles have been strained and give you exercises which will relieve by using another set or the same set in an opposite way?

No matter what the strain, there is an exercise which will help you. Study the natural remedy and quit worrying and fretting about it.

Some Men Have All the Luck

By S. E. KISER.

THIS should be a proud Thanksgiving
For a man whom I could name.
Not alone because he's living,
And is neither blind nor lame;
There's another splendid reason
Why he should be one of those
Who are filled with hope this season
And have undisturbed repose.

IF sometimes he feels rheumatic
And his chins have multiplied,
Still he ought to be ecstatic
And cast every care aside;
For his son, unharmed and happy,
Eats his meals at home once more,
Straightened up and trim and snappy—
Wiser than he was before.

BUT there's a reason in addition
To the one that has been named
Why it is a proud position
That this citizen has claimed;
Every problem that he grapples
Seems to bring him greater gain—
He could buy a dozen apples
And recover from the strain.

A PROUD PRIVILEGE.

Some of the people of this country will never cease to be happy because of the fact that they will be able to hand down to their children's children the assurance that they once shook the left hand of the Prince of Wales.

HE MAY BE DODGING THE WAR TAX.

A collection of canceled postage stamps has been sold in London for $1,000,000. The man who bought the stamps refuses to reveal his identity, which indicates that his insanity runs only in streaks.

GOOD CHEER & CO.

A way for the weak and a way for the strong,
And your way will be right when you add what you may
For those to whom few of life's pleasures belong,
To the fund to make Christmas a merrier day

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

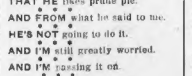
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

By K. C. B.

THE OTHER day.
I TOLD you a story.
OF THE tall, sad man,
WHO HAD lost his wife.
IN THE hotel lobby.
AND I was worried.
AND MAYBE you were.
AND I want to tell you.
THAT I saw him again.
THE NIGHT before last.
AND HE was alone.
AND IT took some courage.
BUT I finally did it.
I WALKED up to him.
AND BEGGED his pardon.
AND SAID I was the man.
HE HAD asked about his wife.
WHEN SHE disappeared
WHILE HE was upstairs.
AND THAT I was worried.
AND DID she ever come back.
AND WE sat down together.
AND HE told me the story.
OF HOW they had quarreled
IN THE dining room.
WHEN SHE had suggested
THAT HE order prune pie
WHEN IT came to dessert.
AND HE said he didn't like it.
AND SHE said he did.
AND HE said he didn't
AND SHE said he did
AND THAT, anyway.
HE NEVER did know.
WHAT HE liked or disliked.
AND HE said he didn't.
AND SHE said he did.
AND HE said he didn't.
AND IF she'd mind her own business.
AND ORDER for herself.
AND LET him alone.
THAT THEY'D get on better.
AND SHE said they wouldn't.
AND HE said they would.
AND NOT to talk so loud.
BECAUSE THE other tables.
WERE ALL looking at them.
AND SHE said they weren't.
AND HE said they were.
AND HE knew what he liked.
AND WOULD eat what he liked.
AND SHE said he was crazy.
AND HE said he wasn't.
AND THAT, anyway.
HE WOULDN'T order prune pie.
IF HE starved to death.
AND THE result of it was
THEY HAD no dessert.
AND PAID their check.
AND WENT out to the lobby.
AND FOUGHT all the way out.
AND HE went upstairs.
AND WHILE he was gone
SHE WENT to her sister's.
WHO LIVED in the city.
AND SENT him word.
THAT SHE won't come back
UNTIL HE admits.
THAT HE likes prune pie.
AND FROM what he said to me.
HE'S NOT going to do it.
AND I'M still greatly worried.
AND I'M passing it on.
SO THAT you can worry.



THANK you.

HOW TO GET THE BEST RESULTS OF STUDY

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

THE best education in the world is the education one gains for one's self. Many young persons can get through school and college by giving only a small fraction of their minds to their studies. Their attention is elsewhere. They have not really learned anything in their classes; they simply have a hodge-podge of facts in their brains which they proceed to forget as soon as possible. Real comprehension of any subject is only achieved by giving to it our unflagging and enthusiastic attention. Then that subject will give up to you all its secrets.

One person reads a book which captures his attention and he gains much from it—new ideas, possibly a different point of view. It illumines and stimulates his mind, starting fresh trains of thought.

Another reads it perfunctorily and is bored to death by it. He gets nothing at all from it except a sense of fatigue. And yet that second person may be quite as intelligent, or more so than the first; but the tastes or tendencies of his mind are different. The meat that nourishes one is poison to the other.

I have had a letter from a young girl who is a born student, an insatiable seeker after knowledge; but she has been thwarted in her quest and is therefore unhappy. She says:

Ambitious Girl's Letter

"I have had the courage to write to you, believing that you will help me as you have helped many others.

"I am feeling very miserable and unhappy. This thought is always in my mind: 'Why can't I go to school and study to my heart's content?' And since circumstances do not permit this, why can't I be satisfied with what I have been doing, working in a factory?

"But I keep always thinking, thinking, what can I do that will enable me to be something really worth while?

"My people cannot help me, as they hardly know the language of this country, for we have been here only eight years. I attended grammar school, and had my heart set on going to high school, but my help was needed at home, so at the age of fourteen I had to start to work in the factory.

"I worked there until three weeks ago, when I took a position as a clerk, having attended a business school in the evenings for about a year.

"Now that I am coming in contact with people who are educated, I realize how stupid I am. I just love to listen to their conversation, and again and again I deplore the fact of my own stupidity. Of course, at eighteen I am not too old to learn, but what can I do? I have tried getting books from the library, but when I read them I cannot understand the greater part of them. Please give me some advice."

Not Case of Stupidity

My dear child, call yourself any names you please, but never say that you are stupid. When I read your letter, I caught myself murmuring, "Amazing!" It is beautifully typed, and clearly and correctly expressed. There are many born Americans who have had far greater educational advantages than have fallen to your lot that could not compete with you as a letter writer.

I think the reason you did not understand the books you got from the library is because they were probably on subjects which did not deeply interest you. You heard your friends discussing them, and that fired you with a desire to read them; but when you got them you found the greater part of them Greek to you. Why? Because they did not afford you the meat that your mind instinctively craves. That kind of reading may do you more harm than good. It is like trying to live on a diet which some one else likes and assimilates, but which does not agree with you in the least.

Or it may be that the books you speak of required some preliminary reading. One has got to know the a-b-c of a subject before he can fully grasp its more elaborate and final statements and conclusions.

We learn that thing readily which catches and holds our interest and imagination. Don't try to follow the educational methods laid down by other people; make your own. "Insist on yourself, never imitate." Ask yourself what subjects you would rather get a first-hand knowledge of than others. Then go to the people who you think could help you and ask them to find out for you what are the best and most comprehensive books on those subjects.

The New American Motto
Time, the Healer
100,000,000 Responsibilities
Ford's New Idea

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1919.

The Imperator, a great German ship, in American waters and in possession of the United States government, is turned over to England at her demand. It goes to the Cunard Company.

A collection of ships belonging to the American Standard Oil Company are seized and held by England on the ground that they had been sailing under the German flag.

Time heals wounds. If you said: "About a hundred years from now a young descendant of the German Kaiser will visit the United States, government officials will hurry to meet him, servile crowds will bow and cheer." What protests would rise! "Never, never," the people would say. "Never a welcome to any successor of the Hohenzollern who did such dreadful things in Belgium."

The Americans about a hundred years ago would have said the same about any successor of King George, whose agents hired red savages to kill Americans, including women and children.

This country has given a pretty fair reception to the young Prince of Wales, with never a thought about the red Indian massacres. Man is a forgetting animal, fortunately. It would sour him if he had to remember all his hatreds.

The head Red Cross worker in Armenia is here to tell the United States government that "its first duty" is to the inhabitants of Armenia, in danger of destruction at the hands of Turks.

The gentleman is mistaken. This government has just one hundred million responsibilities that come ahead of any responsibility abroad. It has one responsibility for each American inhabitant. Everything possible should be done for Armenians; for all the fourteen hundred million human beings that live on this earth outside of the United States. But the government's first duty is to those that live here. A fact forgotten quite often.

At Constantinople, Abrahim Effendi, head of Mohammed's church, congratulates the United States on having put into the constitution the prohibition idea that Mohammed gave to the Turks thirteen hundred years ago.

The other piece of news from Turkey tells of cutting down of harems. Mohammed allowed each man four wives, but made up for no alcohol. But the high cost of living has shrunk the harem. American travelers are surprised by Turks offering to make them a present of one or two surplus young women.

It costs something to strike on a big scale. The steel men have made up their minds to go back in the Pittsburgh district, so mill owners say. In ten weeks the men's loss in wages amounted to more than twenty-nine million dollars. Mills will make up their loss with bigger orders, higher prices, workmen won't. It is time the workmen invented something better than the strike.

The French are through in Russia, Lloyd George has said that England has had all the Bolshevist fighting she wants. He confirms the statement of a German military expert, that fighting Russia is like sinking into a feather bed, the deeper in you sink, the more you choke. England's mouth is full of feathers.

The United States apparently is still carrying on a dilitante war on the fringe of Russia, not quite knowing how to get out. But it amounts to nothing.

The real fight will probably be between Russia and Japan.

With millions of extra Japanese population, sparsely settled Siberia, fertile and rich in undeveloped resources, is very tempting. Japan intimates that it may be her sad duty to meet, all alone, the Bolshevist menace.

That is nothing for the white race to worry about. If Japan keeps Bolshevism busy, Bolshevism in turn will probably keep yellow Japan busy, while the rest of the world rebuilds.

The Japanese will find fighting Russia very different from fighting the Russian Czar. The next Japanese-Russian fight will be no Japanese picnic. It may use a good deal of the surplus Japanese population.

Someone suggests that to settle the coal problem, farmers should take the place of strikers in the mines. The farmers will not do it, too sudden a transition. But the day will come when men will do more than one kind of work, which will be an excellent thing for the human and for industry.

Henry Ford is now working on that line. One of his plans is to put factories in agricultural regions where there is water power, use the power for machinery and irrigation in summer, build factories next to the water power and give the farmers and their families employment at high wages in Winter. Let the factory rest in Summer, the farm in Winter. That is real intelligence.
